DEMOCRATS IN PRIMARY FIGHTS

Highways Probe Groundwork Set In Legislature

HARRISBURG (UP) — The Republican-controlled House today prepared the groundwork for a $100,000 investigation of what GOP leaders termed "growing charges of chaotic conditions within the Highways Department."

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (McKean) co-sponsored new legislation which would have a 10-member commission of senators and representatives, armed with subpena powers, conduct a continuing inquiry into the activities of the state's road building agency.

Johnson also announced that a resolution calling for a limited investigation of the Highways Department would be scrapped as "inadequate to meet the needs which are indicated by growing public concern over the operation of the department."

"The mushrooming charges have created grave concern for the well being of Pennsylvania," Johnson said in a statement released upon introduction of the bill, which he co-sponsored with Reps. Blaine C. Hocker (R-Dauphin) chairman of the House Highways Committee, and Stanley G. Stroup (R-Bedford).

"The people are well aware of our pressing highways needs as well as the challenge presented by President Eisenhower's road building program," he said. "People are also aware of the price they are paying. We believe that by carrying out the intent of this bill, we will give taxpayers insurance that their highway tax dollars will be put to proper use."

Expect Governor's Okay

Hocker said that the bill's sponsors were depending upon "public sentiment' to have it receive Gov. George M. Leader's signature. He indicated the investigation would not expire with the current Legislature and said that an appropriation of $100,000 "is not too much money on an investigation of this type and duration.'

Meanwhile, Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler defended the administrative set-up in the department and termed a critical story published in a Western Pennsylvania newspaper "a desperate attempt to bolster circulation at the expense of the Highways Department.'

Lawler said a charge that 25 Democratic county chairmen are holding highway superintendent jobs was a "falsehood' and said that only two county chairmen were on the department payroll.

Senate action on the Republican sponsored sales tax bills foundered on a lengthy debate over amendments added by Republicans before the bills emerged from committee.

The Democrats were scheduled to present a long series of proposed changes to the tax bill but the chamber quit at its self-imposed 6 p.m. deadline leaving the tax measures in exactly the same position as they began. The Democratic amendments probably will be presented at today's session.

Senate Minority Leader John H.

First of Two Registration Days Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be the first of two voter registration days to be held in Monessen for the May 21 primary.

This year residents will be able to register at two different locations, the City Building and Park Manor Apartment office in the housing project near City Park. Registrars will sit from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. at both places.

Any resident who will attain the age of 21 on or before May 22 is eligible to register to vote.

Anyone who has failed to vote within the last two years or any female who has married since she last voted must register to be eligible for the primary.

Anyone who has moved from one precinct to another, or from one ward to another must fill out a change of address card to be eligible to vote.

'Good Samaritan' Is Involved in Nearby Accident

A "good Samaritan" was one of the drivers involved in a three-car accident early this morning on Route 51 not far from the Webster Hollow intersection, State Police reported.

Reports said a car operated by Leo Stull, of Pittsburgh, had run out of gas on the road. Joseph Kavka, of Elrama, traveling behind, offered to push the Stull machine to the nearest gasoline station. The third car involved struck the rear of the Kavka machine while it was pushing the Stull vehicle.

Ann Winters, of R. D. 2, Belle Vernon, was driving the third car, police said.

About $1,000 damage resulted.

Meeting Tonight On Fluoridation

A Citizens' Committee seeking fluoridation of the water supply in Monessen, Donora and Charleroi will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the City Building at Third street and Donner avenue, Monessen.

The three communities all receive water from the Authority of the Borough of Charleroi.

The committee at present numbers about 20 persons.

The committee will meet to plan a public information program in behalf of fluoridation.

Girl Slugged by Bandits

W. Newton Office Is Held Up

A 21-year-old West Newton office clerk, Maralyn Berry, is recovering from a painful head injury suffered yesterday when two masked bandits struck her over the head with a gun butt during a daring daylight armed robbery of the Field Finance Co. at 114 Main street, West Newton.

The holdup victim, who was alo in the office, was treated by a West Newton physician and at the Gemmill Hospital in Monessen. X-rays taken immediately after the robbery revealed no serious injuries, it was reported. She was released to her home.

The two bold holdup men entered the loan company about 12:15 p. m., or about 15 minutes after the manager, Henry E. Thomas, left for lunch.

'This Is Holdup'

She said she was sitting at a desk when the two men, both masked with scarves, approached her and said,

"This is a holdup."

One of the men leaned over the desk, pointed a gun at her and demanded she open the safe. She complied.

After looting the safe, which was located in a private room off the main office, one of the men told her to walk ahead of them.

She told police she had a feeling "something was going to happen to me."

As she walked ahead, the armed bandit struck her over the head with the butt of the gun, inflicting a deep gash which bled profusely.

She said she remembered falling to the blood-spattered floor, but did not completely black out. She said she believed she was on the floor less than a minute or two when she got her "bearings" and got to her feet.

The bandits fled during the interim. She called police immediately and then fled to a neighboring office for additional help.

Chief of Police Gene Letterio, of West Newton, said the holdup men made a "clean getaway," stating that no one either saw the men come or go.

Early Burglary

Letterio said a group of men were standing on a nearby corner during the holdup but were unaware of what was happening.

State Police from the Greensburg barracks had just left West Newton a few minutes before the robbery, leaving after making an investigation of a early Monday morning burglary of the Superior Supermarket in West Newton.

Howard Field, owner of the finance company, told reporters that $200 in cash was taken. It was learned, however, that finance have an agreement to place the sum taken in all robberies and burglaries at the $200 figure.

Parente, Stieska In Mayor Battle; No GOP Filers

Democrats in County Fight

Westmoreland County Democrats today were preparing to lock horns in a primary battle which will involve every county office except District Attorney.

There will be no contests for any of the Republican county nominations except those for Common Pleas Judge.

Six candidates are entered in the race for the two judgeships at stake this year and all are filed on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. Only candidates for judge are permitted to seek more than one party nomination in Pennsylvania.

Candidates have until next Monday to withdraw and prevent their names from appearing on the voting machines and ballots at the May 21 primary.

Judge Entries

The entries for Judge are Edward G. Bauer, now completing his first 10-year term on the bench; Joseph M. Loughran, a former assistant District Attorney; James L. McWherter, former State Assemblyman and a nephew of Judge George H. McWherter; Avra N. Pershing, Jr., Greensburg attorney; Robert Rial, who was the Republican nominee for D. A. four years ago, and L. Alexander Sculco, current D. A.

Judge Bauer, Sculco, Loughran and McWherter are all registered Democrats, but Bauer and Sculco have the support of the courthouse organization. Pershing and Rial are registered Republicans.

Each party will nominate two candidates. If a candidate succeeds in capturing both party nominations at the primary, his election in November will be virtually assured.

Earl S. Keim, now serving as an assistant D. A. under Sculco, will be unopposed for the Democratic nomination for D. A. His Republican opponent, also unopposed in the primary, will be Wayne R. Donahue, New Kensington attorney.

Clerk of Courts Raymond Turner, now serving by appointment, will be opposed for the Democratic nomination for that office by Howard M. Bricker, veteran deputy sheriff.

Yoney Is Candidate

Turner is a son of Chief County Detective Arthur B. "Buddy" Turner, reputed boss of the Democratic courthouse organization and principal target of anti-organization forces.

Coroner Stephen D. Yoney, of Monessen, also serving an unexpired term by appointment and the Democratic organization's choice to succeed himself, will be opposed by Patrick Doyle, of Greensburg.

Prothonotary Leo D. Sukala, candidate for a fourth Democratic nomination in that office, will have primary opposition from Stanley Bailey, of Mt. Pleasant.

Other Republican candidates

Sinchack Runs For Council

Mayor Hugo J. Parente will have one opponent instead of the expected two in his bid for a fourth term as Monessen's chief executive.

In a surprise move just before the filing deadline yesterday afternoon, Stephen Sinchak, who had announced he would be a candidate for Mayor, changed his mind and decided to seek Democratic nomination for City Council.

Sinchak threw his support to John R. Stieska, druggist and independent candidate who will oppose Parente for the mayoralty nomination. It will be the first time in his career that the Mayor has faced a single opponent in the Democratic primary.

The Republicans

The filing deadline passed without a single Republican becoming a candidate for local office. This is believed to be the first time in the history of the City that one of the major parties has defaulted completely.

Several of the Democratic candidates are expected to campaign for write-in votes on the Republican ticket.

Sinchak's switch to the councilmanic race made a field of six candidates for the two nominations for Council. Besides Councilmen John Molnar and David Victoria, both running for reelection with organization support, the others in the field are: William Snyder, a contractor; John Dyky, steelworker and union officer; Third Ward Alderman John Harhai, a former school teacher.

Frank Bosco, a contractor who announced recently that he would be a candidate for City Council on the Democratic ticket, did not file a nominating petition.

Bosco said he had been advised by his doctor that he should not undertake a campaign.

For City Treasurer, incumbent John Spielman will be opposed by Dr. G. L. Trilli, a chiropodist and former school director.

City Controller James Tucci will have two primary opponents: First Ward Alderman Manuel Monios and Kenneth McNaughton, a steelworker.

Nine are seeking two positions on the school board. Incumbent Dr. Joseph Dudas, Sr., will seek reelection. Others tossing their hats in the ring were Emil Beck, Michael Stima, Pierre Luti, Anthony Todaro, Clifford Learnard, John Kerekes and Robert Wojtkowski.

Romeo Furio, the other incumbent, is not running for reelection.

Most Newcomers

Luti is a former school director while Beck will be making his second bid for a nomination. The others are newcomers.

In making his last-minute switch yesterday, Sinchak said:

"I had been approached by many of my personal friends and supporters who felt that either

Jaynes Put on Temporary Duty, His Boss Says

State Police officials today denied that Sgt. N. M. (Whitey) Jaynes — a racket-busting trooper — has been "transferred" from his Uniontown command.

State Police Commissioner Earl J. Henry said that Sergeant Jaynes has been put on detached service in Greensburg for "the duration of a confidential investigation."

Henry hinted that Sergeant Jaynes will be returned to Uniontown once his new assignment has been completed.

When Sergeant Jaynes was ordered yesterday to give up his Uniontown command, there were immediate rumors that the move had been inspired by the underworld.

President Judge W. Russell Carr of Fayette County described the action as a "tragedy."

However commissioner Henry offered this explanation today:

"I want it clearly understood that Sergeant Jaynes is not being transferred. He is being put on detached service to the Greensburg troop for the duration of a confidential investigation."

Henry also disclosed that Sergeant Jaynes' replacement at Uniontown, Sgt. W. C. Munz, is also on "detached service" from the Carnegie barracks.

Forward Township Policemen Rehired

Two Forward Township policemen have been reinstated.

The two officers, Police Chief George Hines and Patrolman Anthony Piscitelli, were notified by Road Supervisors to report for work.

Original plans called for the firing of the two officers in an economy move. However, public clamor for police supervision in the township was loud.

As a result a scheduled meeting between a citizens' committee and the supervisors last night was called off.

'Cry Baby' Law Is Sidetracked in House

HARRISBURG (UP) — Legislation to require minority party representation on Pittsburgh's City Council has been sidetracked in the General Assembly.

The House voted Monday, 120-79, to send the legislation back to the committee which handles Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Scranton bills for further study and possible amendments.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Joseph P. Rigby (R-Allegheny), sparked lively debate on the House floor before it was recommitted on a motion by Minority Leader Albert S. Readinger (D-Berks).

Rigby argued the legislation was

New Castle Man Fined by Judge

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Marco J. Alberico, 33 New Castle, was fined the amount of federal money collected illegally after be admitted Monday he drew both railroad unemployment insurance and Pennsylvania relief benefits.

Federal Judge Nelson McVicar placed Alberico on probation for three years and ordered him to pay $655 fines plus court costs.

Brewster Hires Horse Trainer as Organizer

WASHINGTON (UP) — West Coast Teamsters Boss Frank W. Brewster testified today he hired his personal race horse trainer as a $150-a-week union organizer.

Brewster told the Senate Labor Rackets Committee the trainer, Mel Eisen, was hired to organize race track workers in the Los Angeles area.

The committee produced vouchers to show that the trainer's son, Bobby Eisen, traveled on airlines at union expense. Brewster said he knew nothing about this.

Brewster, chairman of the 11-state Western Conference of Teamsters, operates a string of race horses called the Needmore Stables. He has testified he fell in love with horses while driving a dray in his youth.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen Brewster's testimony would lay the groundwork for the appearance—at a date not yet set — of Teamsters President Dave Beck.

Beck was to confer in Seattle, Wash., today with his new attorney, former U.S. Senator James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, on whether he will voluntarily surrender his financial records by the committee's deadline — noon Wednesday Seattle time.

Beck said in Seattle Monday night he has paid $308,000 in income taxes since 1949. He said most of the money represented real estate earnings "entirely unrelated to the labor movement.

The committee has threatened to subpena the records if Beck does not hand them over willingly. It has said a time for Becks personal appearance for questioning will depend on what records he hands over, and what they contain.

Brewster was indicted by a federal grand jury here Monday for contempt of another Senate committee. Indicted with him on the same grounds were three other Teamsters officials: Einar O. Mohn, Becks right-hand man and

No Plans for Troops In Gaza, Egypt Says

By UNITED PRESS

Egypt has assured the United States that it has no present plans to send troops into the Gaza Strip, along whose borders Israeli sources reported new minor violence today.

Cairo dispatches also reported that Egypt has assured the United Nations it has no intention of pushing the U.N. Emergency Force out of the disputed Strip.

At the same time, Cairo has outlined its views on future Egyptian operation of the Suez Canal in a memorandum handed to representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union, India and the U.N.

The three moves eased the tension in the Mideast, where officials feared the minor Gaza border incidents might mushroom into major trouble.

Israel has warned against the return of a "belligerent" Egypt to Gaza and the United States and other nations have been working in secret to slow down Egypt's moves in that direction.

Israel said a farm tractor was blown up by a mine at the border settlement of Nahal Oz and that three more plastic mines were found in the vicinity. They apparently were laid by Fedayeen commandos since tracks led to the Gaza border.

Thieves also penetrated 20 yards inside the Israeli frontier and stole grain from a border farm.

The Egyptian move into Gaza was nearing completion, and Cairo Radio reported the U.N. Emergency Force was moving its headquarters out of the strip.

Indian Minister V. K. Krishna Menon arrived in Cairo today for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He warned that no peaceful settlement could ever be reached with threats to use force.

The Egyptian Suez Canal authority announced in Suez that ships of

U.S. Can Buy Things Real Cheap

By GAYLOR P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON (UP) — The friend who says he can get it for you wholesale is a piker. The government can get it for much less.

Take automobiles. Or tires. Or electric light bulbs. Or ball-point pens. Or almost anything else the government and the general public buy for everyday use.

Uncle Sam buys automobiles cheaper than even the dealers pay. Tires cost the government less than half the price charged the general public.

Manufacturers give government a 45½ per cent discount on light bulbs

And those ball-point pens that retail for 49 cents with a refill for a quarter. The government pay 19½ cents for the pen and 4½ cents for the refill.

How does the government do it? Buying mostly by contract and in big quantities is the answer.

GSA Does Buying

The General Services Administration (GSA), the government's housekeeping agency, does all of Uncle Sam's buying except those items purchased by the Defense Department.

It buys most needed items through bids submitted by manufacturers, generally awarding the contract to the low bidder. The bids must be equal to or below the ceiling price fixed by the government.

From July 1, 1956, to June 30 of last year, the government bought 4,260 passenger cars and station wagons. Most were Fords and Chevrolets.

Four-door sedans cost an average of $1,288. They were six-cylinder cars, with standard transmissions. They had a little less chrome and a little less fancy upholstery, but otherwise were regular models.

"It's good business at the price for manufacturers," a GSA official said

No Dealers Involved

Some of the factors in the low price on government auto orders

—The government does not have to pay a percentage of the national advertising costs of auto manufacturers. Such charges are made against dealers

—No dealers are involved in the purchase so there is no dealer profit.

—The government takes delivery at the manufacturer's assembly plant and there are no transportation costs

Another factor is the keen competition among manufacturers. Officials surmise that the production race between Ford and Chevrolet helps the government get cars at the price it pays (Plymouth does not bid on government orders.)

Off - season buying is another factor. Government contracts usually cover periods when civilian demand is low, and this helps the manufacturer to keep his production line going.

DANCERS HAVE A KICK COMING — Recalling that "Oscars" have been awarded for every movie achievement except dancing, four Radio City Music Hall Rockettes decide they have a kick coming as they get together with director Russell Markert in New York. He is signing a petition to be sent to the Hollywood Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences urging inclusion of choreography in annual prizes awards.

Police Just Didn't Like His Story

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —Police were not impressed with the explanation of a 130-pound parolee. They caught him walking out of the back door of a grocery store dragging a 150-pound sack of hams Sunday.

Prepare for Chicks Before They Arrive

By UNITED PRESS

If you are expecting some baby chicks this year, you should prepare for them before they arrive, according to a Penn State Extension Poultry Specialist, Carl Dossino.

He suggests getting litter on the floor, adjusting the brooder stove and placing a guard about 18 inches away from the outside edge of the hover. Feeder and grit should be made available, he said

Acceptable feeding methods, he pointed out, are small feeders, new eggs case flats spaced around the outer edge of the hover and the lids of chick boxes. If lids are used, they should be turned upside down and paper should be put inside to cover the holes

Feeding nothing but fine grains and grit for the first day-and-a-half may prevent the chicks from becoming pasted, Dossin said Some growers start chicks right off with mash and argue that a little pasting doesn't hurt the chicks.

By allowing dim lights to burn all night in the brooder, Dossin said there is less crowding and he recommended a seven-and-a-half watt bulb for small brooders and one bulb for every 200 square feet in larger houses.

Beef Calves

A few hints to save your beef calves are offered by Penn State extension beef specialist, Tom King.

When a young heifer is ready to calve, King says the farmer should check her a few times a day because she might need help

Calves should start nursing within five hours after birth but they also may need some assistance The cow's first colostrum milk is a good source of vitamins and minerals and helps to get the calf's digestive system working properly, according to the specialist.

King suggests that young calves ready to start nibbling on hay and grain be given some choice, leafy hay and a clean palatable grain mix For a mix he recommends four parts oats, one part bran and one part of protein supplement pellets.

Calves will gain well during the summer on creep ration placed in the pasture, and King suggests for the creep ration equal parts of cracked corn and oats He urges adding ten per cent protein pellets if your pasture is scarce.

Pittsburgh Coal Reports Boost In Net Income

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. today reported net income for 1956 of $21,972,169 in addition to $15,473,509 realized from sale of major operating properties.

Included in last year's results was the Pocohontas Fuel Co, Inc, although the firm was acquired Dec 3 Comparable 1955 figures for the two companies show net income of $17,659,231

The report said total 1956 production by the company and supervised mines was nearly 41 million tons, an increase of 11 9 per cent over 1955.

The new Humphrey mine, north of Morgantown, W Va, was producing at an annual rate of 2 million tons and the New Loveridge mine in the airmont area is being developed rapidly and construction of its preparation plant is underway, according to the report

Steel Production Shows Decline

CLEVELAND (UP)—Steel production declined another three points last week to 92 per cent of capacity and it will continue to go down in coming weeks, according to Steel Magazine.

The magazine termed the decline orderly and said the steel ingot production rate is becoming "more realistic."

According to the publication, forecasters said 1957 would be a 120 million net ton year, and the industry could produce that much by operating at 90 per cent capacity.

During the first two months the ingot rate averaged 97.3 of capacity At a yearly pace that would produce 129.8 million tons—a figure which the most liberal optimists could not expect, Steel said.

The metalworking magazine said there are assorted reasons for the decline including a reduced demand for steel.

In the Chicago district U S. Steel Corp. took off one blast furnace and three open hearths because of weakness in orders. Labor troubles in a Buffalo mill and an eastern Ohio mill pulled steel production rates down. Continuation of a strike at plants producing oxygen for steel mills also is hampering steel production.

A Cleveland steel mill took off some of its steelmaking facilities so that the job of tying in a plant addition could go forward, the magazine noted.

Only one district, Youngstown, increased its production rate last week. The Mahoning Valley steel area of Youngstown went up 2 points while production in Buffalo, Birmingham and the western states held steady.

Of the districts which declined in production, Detroit suffered the biggest drop—7 5 points off its previous weekly mark.

Above Normal Temperatures Due

WASHINGTON (UP)—Temperatures are expected to average above seasonal normals from the Appalachian Mountains eastward during the neyt 30 days, according to the Weather Bureau.

Below normal averages are predicted west of the Mississippi River, especially in the southern Rocky Mountain states.

Normal temperatures are indicated elsewhere.

The Weather Bureau said in its 30-day outlook that precipitation is expected to exceed normal over most of the nation except the Great Plains, the far Southwest, and the area east of the Appalachians, where near normal amounts are indicated.

'Happy' Highway

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP) —Florida's new Sunshine State Parkway was christened for a second time Monday—with moonshine whisky. The occasion was the first capture of a bootlegger on the newly opened toll road. State highway patrolmen arrested Dewey Lee Young after a chase and confiscated his bootleg load of 575 gallons. The whisky was dumped in parkway ditches, except for a quantity saved for evidence.

Ben-Gurion Defends Rights

Says Israel Is Ready To Fight

By ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP) — Premier David Ben-Gurion said today Israel would fully defend its rights to passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and that return of Egypt to the Gaza Strip means the search for a Mideast peace is "being almost wilfully thrown away."

Ben-Gurion, in the first interview he has granted since the Israeli withdrawal from Gaza and Sharm El Sheikh on the Gulf of Aqaba, also renewed Israel's demand for freedom of passage through the Suez Canal and appealed for international pressure against Egypt's "illegal blockade."

In this connection he recalled that "President Eisenhower has stated that it should not be assumed that Israeli shipping will be interfered with in the Suez Canal."

Spirited But Tired

The 70-year-old Prime Minister who wrote out his replies in answer to questions by the United Press seemed to be in excellent spirits despite the tenseness of the past weeks and a government crisis threat that has not entirely disappeared. He appeared tired.

Ben-Gurion repeated his previous offers to sit down with Arab leaders and negotiate either a peaceful settlement or pacts of non-aggression and suggested that this could be done by the United Nations. He was firm, though, and he stated "we are here to stay."

Following are Ben-Gurions statements on the most important issues facing Israel today:

On freedom of passage in the Gulf of Aqaba:

"We certainly expect that Israel, like other nations, will continue to exercise its rights of passage through this international waterway and we shall, if necessary, fully defend these rights."

On freedom of passage of the Suez Canal:

"President Eisenhower has stated that it should not be assumed that Israel shipping will be interfered with in the Suez Canal. Egypt in blocking Israel's shipping in the canal has defied apart from the Security Council's resolution of October 1956, that of September 1951 as well as the Constantinople Convention of 1888.

Says U.N. on Spot

"International opinion, we believe, recognizes that it was a cardinal error to show indulgence to this infringement. Israel for its part will naturally exercise her rights of free passage when the canal is reopened. It is to be hoped that necessary international pressure will be applied to Egypt, should she attempt to renew her illegal blockade."

On Egypt's takeover in the Gaza Strip:

"I feel that a great opportunity for establishment of a more peaceful situation in our region is being almost wilfully thrown away.

"We proposed a continuance of the Israel administration in suitable relationship with the United Nations. This would have been a course most likely to secure peace along Israel's border and within the strip itself.

"The General Assembly took a different line and we withdrew on the assumption that the Egyptians would not be allowed to return. Heavy responsibility for what may develop now rests on the United Nations and on those powers in whose word we placed our trust that belligerent Egypt would not be restored to the strip with all that that meant for our border settlements. What is happening is that the United Nations is associating with a Fedayeen (Arab commando) regime in the control of the strip."

1,000 tons could be allowed to transit the canal starting today. Previously the canal was opened to 500-ton ships—small harbor craft and coastal boats.

The canal itself is to be opened by April 10 to major shipping.

U.N. Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold planned to leave New York by plane this afternoon for Cairo in an effort to head off the new threat of a clash between Israel and Egypt.

Hammarskjold called a meeting of his seven-nation Advisory Committee on UNEF this morning in New York before his departure.

He discussed the Mideast situation for two hours Monday night with Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir, who warned that Israel "cannot agree to a belligerent Egypt coming back to the Gaza Strip.

Mrs. Meir, who talked Monday with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Washington, said "it was assumed by us, and supported by others, that the U.N. should be in control of Gaza."

A Cairo dispatch said U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare had called on Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi three times in the past two days, urging Egypt to "go slow' lest its rapid takeover of the Gaza Strip touch off new fighting.

Magsaysay's Body Flown Home to Manila from Cebu

MANILA (UP)—A black painted C47 flew the body of popular Philippine President Ramon Magsaysay home to Manila today from Cebu where the 49-year-old leader and 25 of his staff died in a plane crash Sunday.

Thousands of Philippine citizens stood in silence as the plane circled slowly. They burst into wails as it touched the ground .

The Philippines' new president, Carlos P. Garcia, stood with Magsaysay's widow, Mrs. Luz Magsaysay, both dressed in black.

Twenty-one guns boomed a measured salute.

The crowd pushed through a police cordon and touched the gray casket as it was lowered from the plane and placed in a hearse which bore it through Manila's main streets to the Presidential Palace.

The government announced that funeral services will be held at noon Friday and Magsaysay will be buried in Manila's old North Cemetery.

The nation started an official 30-day mourning period Monday.

While the nation mourned, intelligence, security and air force experts continued their exhaustive investigation of possible causes of the plane crash.

The area of the crash, 12 miles from Cebu City on the slope of Mt. Manunggal, was cordoned off by heavy concentrations of troops for the duration of the investigation.

'Cry Baby'

"badly needed" in the city. He said it would require at least one Republican member on the solidly Democratic City Council.

Rep. Walter T. Kamyk (D-Allegheny), also a Pittsburgh resident, opposed the bill, contending it would deprive voters of their fair choice of councilmen. He also said that Rigby did not favor similar legislation in Pennsylvania's other cities.

Former House Speaker Hiram G. Andrews (D-Cambria) advised the legislators the measure was "cry baby" legislation. He said both major parties in Pittsburgh should put up their best men for City Council posts and be "content with the election results."

The bill specified minority party representation in Pittsburgh when the minority had at least 25 per cent of the registered voters in the city. Some Democrats indicated if the bill was passed, they would have sought similar legislation affecting third class cities, townships and boroughs where Republicans have local government control.

Friends are being received at the Toner Funeral Home, Broad avenue, Belle Vernon, where visiting hours are from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p. m.

Star Junction Man Files Suit For Dog Bite

A man who claims he suffered grievous bodily injuries when bitten by a dog has filed an action for damages in the Fayette County courts.

Judgment in excess of $1,000 is sought in the suit filed by Mickey E. Mucci, of Star Junction, against George Muller, operator of the Zippay Car Wash on Route 51, about a mile north of Uniontown.

The action states that on March 1, 1956, Muller owned a Belgium shepherd police dog," known by Muller, his agents, servants and employes to be vicious, ferocious and to have the tendency of biting persons without provocation."

Mucci also claims the dog was permitted to "roam the business places of Muller without a muzzle or restraint and that Muller and his aides had reasonable cause to know the dog had vicious propensities."

At 8:30 p. m., the complaint states, Mucci visited the establishment for service on his auto and the dog allegedly attacked him, biting him on the right ankle and right leg. He was treated in Uniontown Hospital, claiming 46 stitches being required to close the wounds.

The dog has been destroyed.

School Teachers In Tax Problem

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Spessard L. Holland (D-Fla) figured today he'd better turn this one over to the Internal Revenue people.

He received a letter from two Miami, Fla., school teachers complaining because they could not deduct necessary summer courses from their income taxes.

"A neighbor of ours is a strip tease dancer," the teachers wrote. "She is allowed to deduct as 'necessary business expenses' the cost of her false eyelashes and G-strings, while we school teachers can't deduct the cost of required summer school work."

Dent (D-Westmoreland) spoke for almost an hour on the tax measures, continuing an attack on the Republican amendments. Dent hit hard on his theme that the GOP amendments would give further relief to industry at the expense of individual taxpayers.

Dent charged that the GOP-sponsored amendments would "narrow the base of what was intended to be a broad base tax" to the point where "the little people will pay 72 per cent of it."

"We are getting to the point where the only one paying the sales tax is the individual at the retail level," he said.

Sen. Benjamin R. Donolow (D-Philadelphia) said he would offer amendments which would exempt all persons receiving unemployment or workmens compensation," public assistance or social security from payment of the sales tax. In addition other Democratic senators promised at least 33 amendments would be introduced. The dominant Republican bloc is expected to knock them down as fast as they are offered.

The hassle over the sales tax also postponed all other Senate action. Delayed until today was the introduction of the administration-supported measures to replace the salaried state Turnpike Commission with a non-salaried board.

Named to Trustees

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has asked state Senate confirmation of his appointment of Guy S. Miller, 2090 Chestnut St., Washington, Pa., to the board of trustees of Mayview State Hospital for a four-year term, succeeding Thomas M. Reese, Canonsburg, who resigned.

Fire Ants Destroying Crops, Poultry in South

By UNITED PRESS

Southern states appealed today for congressional action to turn back an invasion of the fire ant which is destroying crops, small livestock and poultry and even attacking humans over a widening area.

While congressmen and Agriculture Department officials laid the case before a House Agriculture subcommittee in Washington, appeals for help sounded from local authorities in a hard - hit Gulf coastal area.

Fire ants resemble ordinary garden ants but are about twice their size. They are called fire ants because their sting feels like fire.

Since the fire ant first appeared 24 years ago at Mobile, Ala., where it is believed to have arrived on a South American ship, it has spread northward into about 10 states.

Three Airmen Bitten

The "invader" has spread as far west as Harris County, Tex., and up the Atlantic Seaboard to Wake County, N. C., littering tilled lands and pastures with its "unsightly mounds," other witnesses said.

Rep. Armistead Selden (D-Ala) said the ants have dug 350,000 mounds at Maxfield Air Force Base near Montgomery, Ala., where they also have attacked three airmen, who had to be hospitalized for bites.

Dr. David L. Ray, North Carolina Agriculture Department entomologist, said the danger to farm workers exposed to possible bites which cause festering blisters is an important part of the fire ant menace.

Claims Deaths Resulted

Rep. Bob Sikes (D-Fla) said the ants, spotted thus far over an estimated 22 million acres, have "caused deaths" of human beings.

Cost of eradication is generally estimated at $5 per acre but one control program, at Jay, in northwest Florida, ran $10 an acre, it was reported.

"If allowed to continue their migration the ultimate cost for eradication would be prohibitive," Sikes said.

The House subcommittee is considering legislation to broaden the Agriculture Department's over-all authority to control and eradicate plant pests so the federal government can wage all-out war on the fire ant.

Sen. Lister Hill has announced plans to sponsor similar Senate legislation, saying "it is unthinkable that farmers can do the job alone.

Allegheny Area Wants to Keep Machinery Tax

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (UP)—Industrial communities of the Monongahela Valley banded together today in a move to block an attempt to repeal the Allegheny County machinery tax.

Representatives of 13 cities, boroughs and townships met here Monday night to protest the legislation introduced last week in the state House of Representatives.

McKeesport Mayor Andrew J. Jakomas said Allegheny County communities face "financial disaster" if the bill is passed.

The municipal officials at the meeting decided to send protest resolutions passed by local governing bodies to the legislature and governor; send a committee to Harrisburg to conduct the fight against the bill; and circulate petitions among residents in affected communities.

Hospital Sanitation Lax, Surgeon Claims

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP)—A top surgeon charges hospital patients are dying because of a new laxity in simple sanitation.

He says "one week of good cleaning up" is all that is needed to correct the situation.

Dr. Carl Walter, associate professor of surgery at Harvard Medical School, said Monday there has been an alarming increase in recent years in the number of patients who contract "serious infections" while undergoing hospital treatment.

Relying On Drugs

He told a sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons that hospitals are placing too much reliance on new antibiotic drugs, and too little on old-fashioned cleanliness, to control infection.

The result, he said, is that "90 per cent of our civilian hospitals and a lot of veteran hospitals" have turned into "menaces to the patients' health."

Asserting that his fellow surgeons are "derelict" for permitting this situation, Walter said spot checks indicate the current "sepsis" rate—the number of patients who contract infections—ranges from five to 18 per cent in civilian hospitals.

He said "one week of good cleaning up" could bring the rate "down where it ought to be—about one half of one per cent."

Asks Cooperation

He urged surgeons to accept "personal responsibility" for restoring strict cleanliness standards and advised them to use antibiotics more selectively.

Noting that 8-million Americans undergo surgery in civilian hospitals annually, Walter said the present infection rate means that the death rate from this "preventable" cause is probably "10 times" as great as the death rate from such a widely-feared disease as polio.

The blunt-spoken Harvard surgeon said one reason why "hospitals today aren't nearly as sanitary as they were two generations ago" is that doctors have "abdicated" their responsibilities and are letting laymen run most hospitals.

Political circles in the county are expecting independent Democrats to begin forming an alliance to buck the courthouse slate headed by Bauer, Sculco, Keim and Turner.

Supporters of Loughran, who is bitterly anti-Turner and anti-Sculco, have been especially active in drumming up cooperation among the "outs", and it is not unlikely that an opposition slate will come into the open.

Republican voters in Westmoreland will have virtually nothing to do on May 21 except to dispose of their nominations for the two judgeships.

Housing Controls Criticized

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (UP) — William J. Levitt, one of the nation's largest home builders, Monday called upon government housing authorities to lift restrictions composed in 1955 on home buyers to halt "runaway deflation."

The restrictions needed to be lifted to "pull the home building industry from its depression," Levitt said in telegrams to Albert M. Cole, administrator for Housing and Home Finance; Norman P. Mason, commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, and H. V. Higley, administrator of veterans affairs.

He said the restrictions were imposed to halt "runaway inflation in the industry and should now be lifted to halt "runaway deflation."

"There is no need for stringent controls on housing now," Levitt said. "There is a need to bolster our dwindling volume and prevent further hardship and runaway deflation in an industry which affects the economy of an entire nation."

Levitt referred to the orders issued in 1955 requiring all settlement charges on home purchases to be paid in cash, raising minimum FHA down payments from five to seven per cent and requiring a two per cent down payment on all GI purchases.

Levitt said February housing starts just announced show that "we are now building an annual rate of 910,000 units" and "March starts will show a further drop, pending congressional action to rescind 1955 orders.

The builder said 1.2 million homes were being built annually when the restrictions were issued.

"Your office imposed the restrictions, your office can remove them," Levitt said.

Counties Want Time to Change Tax Assessing

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Sen. William J. Lane (D)-Washington said today that some counties "must" have a two-year extension of the Jan. 1, 1958 deadline for equalization of real estate assessments in Pennsylvania.

Lane, a Washington County commissioner, said he will introduce legislation to advance the deadline for the state Uniform Assessment Law to take effect by Jan. 1, 1960.

"They will have to give us two more years," Lane said. "we have been working on this for five years and it's no way near completion." Lane said his bill will have the endorsement of the Pennsylvania County Commissioners Association.

There is no penalty for county commissioners who fail to set up the new uniform assessments. But a municipality or school district could petition the court for a mandamus to force the commissioners to act, once the law is in force.

Sen. George B. Stevenson (R-Clinton), chairman of the Senate Local Government Committee, declined to take any position on Lane's proposal for another two-year extension of the deadline.

"We would like to see the law go into effect as soon as possible, although we don't want to work a hardship on anybody," Stevenson said.

Stevenson pointed out that the Senate this session has passed legislation which would forbid municipalities and school districts in counties which have made their reassessments from collecting more tax money for the first year than they did the year before.

However a tolerance of 5 per cent would be permitted municipal governments and 10 per cent for school districts. Stevenson said the bill now is in a House committee.

Without such a provision, school districts or municipalities might keep the millage at the same rate even though the assessments had been increased generally. This would result in much higher taxes.

Stevenson said that "most" counties have either made reassessments or are "hard at work" at the job. The only counties exempt from the act are Philadelphia, Allegheny, Delaware, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Montgomery, Westmoreland and Berks.

B'nai B'rith To Hold Past Presidents' Night

Past presidents' night will be observed by B'nai B'rith Lodge 776 tonight in the Kneseth Israel Center at 9 p. m. The offices will be filled by some of the men who have served as lodge presidents in past years.

The guest speaker will be John H Brooks, special agent in the Pittsburgh office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

During the business session further nominations of officers are to be held. The election is planned for April 2.

The special events committee has planned a telephone bridge for Thursday evening of this week and on Friday evening there will be special B'nai B'rith night services at Kneseth Israel Synagogue at 9:15. Rabbi Theodore Stampfer has arranged for members to take part.

A Western Pennsylvania Council meeting is planned for next Sunday at Connellsville.

PTA Meeting Tomorrow to Feature Program

Monessen Parent Teacher Association will meet tomorrow evening in the High School.

The high school debating team, which has been successful in student competition on many occasions this year, will discuss the question, "Should There Be Employment of School Age Youth." Speaking for the affirmative will be Jean Buchar, Bill Lear and for the negative, Florine Komatz and Karen Duda.

Another program highlight will be a style show for which Ruth J. Hornbake will be moderator and Marla Thur will be pianist. The showing will feature apparel made during the semester by the adult evening sewing classes instructed by Mrs. Armand Niccolai. The garments will be modeled by the seamstress herself or some member of her family.

The meeting will be preceded by a 15 minute organ recital by Miss Thur and Charles Winfield will entertain with trumpet selections.

During the business session Mrs. Matt Zoretich will report on a meeting of the executive board and Henry Furio will report for the nominating committee.

Washington homeroom mothers will be hostesses for the social hour.

He Was Loaded

MINOT, S.D. (UP) — Clayton Willis of Minot was in jail today because he went shopping with a baggy pair of pants. Police said his trousers contained a can of ham, a jar of olives, three sausages, a carton of cigarets, a jar of jam, two cans of cold meat, a slice of bologna, a package of gum and a large wedge of cheese.

Sponsors Clash Over 'Civil Rights' Measure

HARRISBURG (UP)—The sponsors of "civil rights" legislation for union members and labor leaders have clashed over the merits and purpose of the bills.

Four Pennsylvania union leaders notified the Assembly the package of four bills was "equal to or exceed in their malevolence any other anti-labor legislation previously introduced."

The charge was in a letter signed by Charles J. Sludden, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Joseph A. McDonough, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor; Harry Boyer, president of the Pennsylvania state CIO Council and Lester Thomas, legislative representative of the United Mine Workers of America.

Co-sponsor Rep. Williard F. Agnew Jr. (R-Allegheny) countered the package was merely to grant by statute certain basic rights to members of labor organizations.

"The issue is now clearly drawn," Agnew said, "everybody is for it except the labor leaders."

Agnew said labor's rank and file and the general public "appear" to regard the legislation favorably. He said the package was confused in "some quarters" as being right to work legislation.

"This legislation does not interfere with, nor does it affect in any manner, the union shop, labor's right to bargain collectively, labor's right to strike, wages, hours or conditions of employment," he said.

The package spells out a four point program which would:

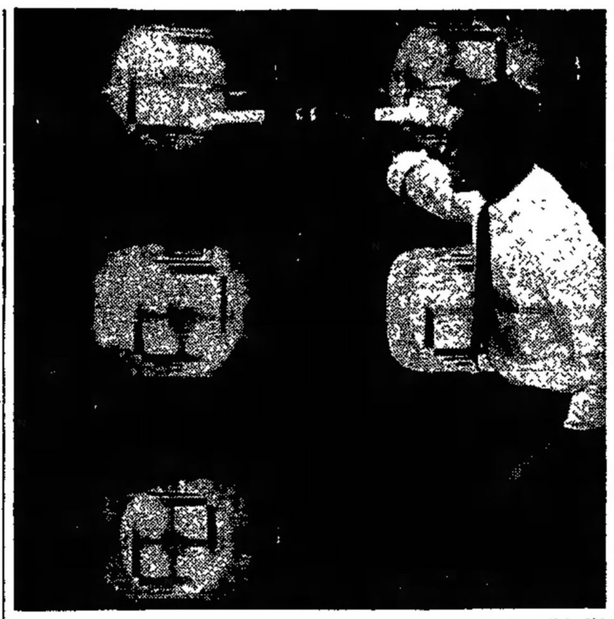
—Define the civil rights of labor union members and protect those rights.

—Require unions to file copies of their constitution and by-laws with the Labor Relations Board, submit annual financial statements and give financial records and constitutions to union members.

—Regulate union welfare and pension funds by requiring statements filed with the state Banking Department.

—Make "black listing" of members by unions and management a misdemeanor.

Co-sponsors with Agnew were Reps. Richard L. Adams (R-Berks) and H. Jack Seltzer (R-Lebanon).



CORNING TESTING RACK — Picture tubes grow old fast in this life testing rack at the new Corning Glass Works development workshop. In less than four months of accelerated testing, the tubes age as much as they would in more than two years of normal living room use.

Corning Glass Has New High in Sales

Corning Glass Works reached a new high in consolidated sales during 1956, while earnings were second-largest in company history, Board Chairman Amory Houghton and President William C. Decker disclosed today.

The company's annual report to stockholders showed net sales of $163,053,554 for 1956, compared to $157,663, 837 for the previous year. Net earnings came to $18,432,753 or $2.72 per share of common stock, compared to $18,626,671 or $2.76 per share in 1955.

"While Corning benefited from continued national prosperity, earnings were squeezed by the pressure of higher material and labor costs," the officers said.

"A company-wide program continues aggressively to counteract these forces by further improvements in operating efficiency."

The annual statement also reported Corning's share of undistributed earnings from associated and subsidiary companies, both domestic and foreign, which are not consolidated with those of the parent company. Returns from these sources totaled $4,772,616, compared to $5,403,701 for 1955.

Corning's three major domestic associates at present are: Dow Corning Corp., Owens - Corning Fiberglas Corp., and Pittsburgh Corning Corp.

Expenditures for plant and equipment in 1956 totalled $14,611,741, largest since 1951. The building program will continue in 1957 with plans for two new manufacturing plants and a New York City office building now under way.

As the leading manufacturer of specialty glass, Corning marketed some 35,000 different products last year, ranging from tiny glass capacitors for electronic equipment to 17-ton radiation shielding windows for atomic energy laboratories. Particularly strong gains were noted in the sale of technical glassware for science and industry and in the company's line of Pyrex brand products for the home.

While holding its position in established markets, Corning continued in 1956 to explore new uses for glass. Basic research activity during the year resulted in the discovery of a fundamentally different material with properties unmatched by presently known glasses. Commercial applications for industry, home and national defense are now being studied.

In the television field, further research has led to manufacturing improvements that now assure the use of glass rather than metal for the bulb of the color picture tube. This acceptance by the television industry resulted from a new method, developed by Corning, for sealing the glass halves of the tubes.

Fine Is Candidate For Judge

HARRISBURG (UP)—Former Gov. John S. Fine was back in the political wars today as a candidate for a Luzerne County Common Pleas Court judgeship on both the Republican and Democratic tickets.

The former governor headed a list of judicial candidates in last minute filings Monday with the state Elections Bureau for the May 21 primary.

Fine, who announced a week ago he would return to the political arena, served on the Luzerne County bench before he was named to the state Superior Court. He resigned from the appellate bench to run for governor in 1950 on the Republican ticket headed by former U.S. Sen. James H. Duff.

Fine has indicated he plans to renew his feud with the Luzerne County GOP faction headed by former state Sen. T. Newell Wood, whose independent slate swept the county two years ago.

In a speech before county Republican leaders March 10 the former chief executive said he "cannot sit idly by without some nausea caused by the arrogance and egotism of the county leadership and its utter disdain for campagin promises and the wishes of the electorate."

The primary will decide party choices for thousands of offices, including mayoralties in 23 cities, judgeships, borough, township, city and county posts and school boards.

Many Democrats in Washington County File Their Petitions

Washington County primary election will be a battle if all the candidates who filed remain in the race.

Five Democrats filed for controller, eight for recorder of deeds, eight for sheriff and eight for jury commissioner. Republicans filed one to an office with the exception of jury commissioner where there are two candidates.

The list is headed by the incumbents in each case. Democratic Sheriff Grant Furlong, Recorder John D. Woodward, Controller Peter Elish and Jury Commissioner Raymond Yeager and Republican Jury Commissioner Charles F. Connors all filed petitions.

Others filing for the May 21 primary:

SHERIFF

Democratic: C. C. Williams, of Denbo; Mike Packrall, of Centerville; Raymond Pohle, Union Township; James Leo Ellsworth, Carroll Township; Mike Nackoul, North Strabane Township; James Bongiorni, Washington and Nestor W. Barli, of California.

Republican: Joseph Daugherty, Finleyville.

CONTROLLER

Democratic: L. C. Gray, Claysville, James O. Roupe, Washington, Mike Packrall, Centerville Borough, Boyd L. Wilson, Bentleyville R. D. 1.

Republican: William C. Masters, Peters Township.

RECORDER OF DEEDS

Democratic: Russell E. Reese, Centerville, Mike Packrall, Centerville, George Linck, Washington, George W. Snyder, East Bethlehem Township, Water Nakoneczny, Houston, Raymond Pohle, Union Township, and Raymond J. Curley, Charleroi.

Republican: Harold B. Balmer, Cross Creek.

JURY COMMISSIONER

Democratic: Inez Donaldson, Dunlevy, Thomas J. Brennan, Washington, George W. Vitteck Sr., Canton Township, Mae Cooper, Long Branch, John M. Crockett, California, Kenneth Blake, Washington, George F. White, Washington.

Republican: Elizabeth Frantz, Charleroi.

All of these candidates have one week to withdraw petitions and drop from the race. In two cases, this will be mandatory. Those concern Mike Packrall who filed petitions for three offices and Raymond Pohl who filed for two.

Medium Earthquake Starts Old Clock

OXNARD, Calif. (UP)—A medium earthquake that caused minor damage in Ventury County Monday rendered further proof to the adage that there is always something good in everything. At Port Hueneme, five miles southwest of Oxnard, the clock in the main office of the City Hall, which had not run for two years, started up after the quake.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father, grandfather, son, and brother, John Edward Otto, who died 4 years ago today, March 19, 1953.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed by Wife, Daughter, Son-in-law, Granchildren, Mother, Sisters, and Brothers

In loving memory of our dear son, brother and uncle, Andrew Ninchak, Jr., who died 10 years ago today, March 19, 1947.
Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death leaves a heartache no one can heal;
Loved dearly in life and living yet,
In the hearts of the ones who will never forget
Sadly missed by Parents, Brothers, Sister, Nieces and Nephews.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Irma Rocco, who died 4 years ago March 18, 1953.
We live today with memories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by Father, Enrico Cicarrochi, Brother and Sister

In loving memory of AOM First Class Paul Grata, who was killed in action on the U.S.S. Franklin 12 years ago, today, March 19, 1945.
Surge gently, tides of ocean deep,
Croon softly, wind on waves:
We know not where our sailors sleep.
No crosses mark their graves.
And though we grieve that they must be
So lost to all held dear.
God's arms held fast our "lost at sea",
He will be near . . . so very near.
Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brothers and Sisters

In loving memory of my dear husband, Andrew Ninchak, Jr., who died 10 years ago today, March 19, 1947.
Deep down in my heart there's a picture,
More precious than silver or gold,
It's a picture of you, my dear one,
Whose memory will never grow old.
Treasured thoughts of you dear
Often bring a silent tear.
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Time goes on but memories last.
Sadly missed by wife, Mrs. Helen Ninchak

In memory of Paul Grata who was killed in service aboard the U.S.S. Franklin, 12 years ago today, March 19, 1945.
Though his smile is gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
We shall never lose sweet memories
Of the one we loved so much.
Sadly missed by Mrs. Joan Tegel and son, Paul Joseph Grata, Jr.

Woman's Club Reviews 10 Years at Monday Meeting

Ten years were reviewed in a meeting of the Fayette City Woman's Club held last evening in the club rooms of the Community Center.

Mrs. George Troth was chairman and called on various members to present reports on club activities. They included:

Mrs. George Rainey discussed membership. She said there were 35 members in the club when it received its charter. Of the original members 17 were present. The club has 59 members at present.

Mrs. Permelia Baldwin discussed programs. She reviewed the types of programs that have been presented during the 10 years. Several of these programs have become traditions.

Mrs. Aland Dent discussed fine arts. This department became responsible for all the musical entertainment provided at the club meetings.

Mrs. Howard Opfar, the club's first treasurer, stated that through the years more than $2.000 had been collected in dues. A report on fund-raising activities was made by Mrs. William Opfar, ways and means chairman.

The work of the publicity department was discussed by Mrs. Joseph Williams who displayed 10 press books. Four have received first place county prizes, several thirds and honorable mentions and two consecutive first in the state contests.

Mrs. James Welch reported on welfare activities. She said that $4,000 had been contributed to the Community Center; $600 to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital and $682-74 to library books at the Fayette City School.

Mrs. Dent also reported on the education committee in place of the chairman, Mrs. Raymond Barker. Two $50 scholarships have been awarded and other projects are stressed.

Mrs. Howard McCrory, a past president, described the Park project. A plot of ground at the South end of town was converted from a rubble heap into a landscaped plot with four memorial trees. This project has cost the club approximately $1,300.

Mrs. J. H. Renstrom reported on the telephone committee and described how the system is used.

Mrs Edwin Hindmarsh, club president, was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Wayne Hawker, fine arts chairman, presented Barry Hindmarsh who entertained with five accordion selections.

A nominating committee was named in the short business session. They include Mrs. Troth, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Welch, Mrs. George Rainey and Mrs. Clyde Wyatt. Election will be held in April.

Hostesses were Mrs. Read Brightwell, Mrs Elsie Gaffney, Mrs. Joseph Butler, Mrs. Vernon Smith and Mrs. James Moody.

Carol Ann Murin Is Winner of Amateur Contest

Carol Ann Murin was selected winner of the third annual amateur contest sponsored by the Fayette City Lions Club.

Miss Murin, of Monessen, presented a pantomime, which she will again present at the District 14E contest in Greensburg, April 3.

Second place was won by Sonny Winfield, also of Monessen, in a trumpet solo. The Fay-ettes, featuring Wanda Moody, Kathy Dent, Henrietta Renstrom and Judy Gardner, won third place. Fourth place was won by Carol Ann Stephens, who also pantomimed.

Richard Richardson was master of ceremonies. Special numbers were presented by Linda Faro, of Charleroi; Mary Jo Chunkala, of Pricedale and Billy Essey with Gary Winfield, of Monessen.

Calypso, Rock 'n' Roll, Just Fads, Cugat Says

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—Xavier Cugat, a bandleader whose TV show is telecast in combatable English, likes to divide the world into two camps.

"Young keeds, they all do thees rock- 'n' roll," said Cugat a little scornfully. "Even in Souse America, the keeds down there, they go crazee for eet. I don' keed you. Crazee.

William Ewald

"But thees Latin rhythms, they are for everyone else. The whole worl' luffs thees rumba, thees conga, thees mambo, thees joropo."

Thees joropo?

"Sure," said Cugat. "Thees joropo. It's a new dance I introduce soon from Venezuela. It will be veree, veree beeg."

Calypso, another current crazee, isn't Cugat's cup of coffee either.

"Eet is, wot you say?—a fod. Fahd. Fad. Yes. It won' last. Who can dance to calypso? All you can do is seeng eet. You can not go to Arthur Murray and say — please, Mr. Murray, teach me how to dance the calypso.

"Five or seex month', I geev eet. Then poof — you'll all be tired."

Cugie, who looked pretty untired himself in fireball red jacket, brown corduroy slacks, blue and pink checked sports shirt and tan suede shoes, launched his own NBC-TV 15-minuter about three weeks ago. He allowed as how Latin rhythms were here to stay.

Look At Me

"Now, you look at me," he said. "We looked and turned away blinded. "I'm in band beeznuss 30 year and play same type music all thees time. Our type music ees not like thees other type that go uppp, then go down. Hoppens my sale of records varies only about 10 thousand a year.

"Everybody says, thees Cugat, he is a lucky fellow. But eet is nothing to do with luck. It is just that people all over like to dance.

"Thees TV show. We are getting mail from all over. You know what everybody say? They say is too short. But that is because I do eet that way. I don't want to play no slow tunes."

Blonde Attorney Up to $16,000

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Vivienne Nearing, the blonde attorney who dethroned quiz champ Charles Van Doren, ran her quiz stake to $16,000 Monday night.

The bell and a boo-boo by emcee Jack Barry cut short the last round of play on NBC-TVs "Twenty One."

Mrs. Nearing, 30, who entered the show with a $14,000 pile, earned $2000 more by topping Cecil Rhodes Jr., a carryover opponent from last week.

Her match against her second opponent—Henry "Hank" Bloomgarden, 29, an administrative consultant in medical research — was short-circuited when Barry fed Bloomgarden the wrong question. Before Barry could correct his error, time ran out on the show.

Amos n' Andy Starts 30th Year

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll—more popularly known as Amos n' Andy —started their 30th year in radio today.

The team, now heard on CBS radio's "Music Hall" series, started their show March 19, 1928, over WMAQ in Chicago. They did their first broadcast in 1920 over an experimental station in New Orleans.

Your Health—

Watch Out for Teeth If You Are Over 35

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

All of you. I'm sure, are familiar with the age-old phrase, "See your dentist at least twice a year."

After you reach the age of 35 this advice becomes more important than ever. For it's during middle age that more teeth are lost from periodontal diseases — pyorrhea and gingivitis — than from any other cause.

These diseases strike both men and women, although men are likely to be affected at an earlier age than women.

One study indicates that close to half of all the nation's men are afflicted with some form of periodontal disease by the time they reach 45. Some have lost all their teeth as a result of it.

Ev dental decay doesn't cause as much trouble during the years after 35.

As in so many diseases, the onset of the condition is gradual. Very often it progresses to the point where there is some bone destruction before the victim is even aware that something is wrong.

Unlike many diseases, however, one attack of pyorrhea or gingivitis does not mean immunity from future attacks. In fact, once you have had either disease, you've got to be especially alert for any recurrence.

In these diseases, the gums become inflamed. If not treated properly, they will start to recede. Eventually, perfectly sound teeth may be lost.

In addition to seeing your dentist semi-annually, you've got to brush your teeth not only regularly each day, but properly. And believe it or not, one method of brushing teeth may be better for you than another.

Actually there are several techniques. The condition of your teeth and gums will determine which will benefit you most. Ask your dentist which is best for you.

Question and Answer

E. G.: I had my gall bladder removed. Will I be able to eat everything or will I have to avoid certain foods?

Answer: Usually after removal of the gall bladder, it is possible for the person to eat all foods within reason. No specific foods need be particularly avoided.

A Great Loss

THE DEATH of President Ramon Magsaysay of the Philippines in a plane crash takes out of action at a most inopportune time one of Asia's most effective anti-Communist leaders.

President Magsaysay was a fighter. He reached the top leadership of his brave little country by way of the Ministry of Defense, in which post he succeeded in suppressing the Communist-directed Huk rebellion. For several years after the end of World War II, in which the Filipinos suffered grievously at the hands of the Japanese, the Huks terrorized the main island of Luzon. And until Magsaysay came on the scene, they represented a serious threat to Philippine stability.

Maysaysay has proven himself a firm friend of freedom in general and of the United States in particular. His government, while clearly eschewing the role of American puppet, nevertheless has cooperated closely with the main lines of U. S. policy in Asia. And if one were to make a list of America's friends who could be counted upon from first to last, at the very top would have to be the Philippine Republic under the presidency of Ramon Magsaysay.

His death now probably will mean a period of uncertainty. Though they have been tesed in fire and found true to democratic ideals, the Filipinos have practiced democracy as an independent nation for only ten years. So they have great need for sure-footed leadership of the kind President Magsaysay had been providing.

The American people will grieve with their Filipino friends in this great loss which both have sustained. And just as the Philippines stood firmly at our side when we were in great trouble, they can count on us now to help them over a rough spot if they need us. Our two nations still share the great ideals for which both have bled.

Great Appeals

THE THREE religious faiths to which most Americans adhere are conducting independent but simultaneous appeals at this time for their massive overseas relief and reconstruction programs. These appeals are:

The "One Great Hour of Sharing", which will be observed on Sunday, March 31, in all of the major Protestant churches of the nation.

The "Bishops' Relief Fund Appeal" to be made in Roman Catholic churches on the same date.

The "Emergency Rescue Fund" of the United Jewish Appeal, which is now in progress and will continue through this period.

Many people probably are not aware of the fact that these three programs together account for more than 80 per cent of all of America's voluntary overseas relief efforts.

It should also be appreciated that a dollar contributed to any of these three appeals will buy more human help and mercy for those who need it most than a dollar given anywhere else. This is because, through their world-wide organizations, the religious faiths command the efforts of more voluntary workers than are available in any other charitable activity.

All who have been touched by the plight of fellow human beings, whether in Europe, Asia or Africa, and who want to relieve suffering and send new hope can do no better than to contribute generously in their churches and synagogues to the three appeals now being conducted.

Why Do They Run?

THE CANDIDATES for local and county offices at stake in this year's elections have now filed their nominating petitions and will soon be explaining to us why it is desirable — if not absolutely essential — to nominate and elect them.

Reading down the political entry lists we often find ourselves wishing somebody would invent a machine that would let us look at the motives of a candidate as a doctor looks at one's liver through the fluoroscope.

Why is the fellow running for this office, anyway, we wonder. Is it because he sees an opportunity to render a service to his neighbors and his community? Or is he just interested in padding out his income an easy way?

Does this man have some carefully considered ideas about what he wants to do if he should be elected? Or is he just going along for the ride on somebody's slate and will be content to let somebody do the thinking if he's elected?

Is our candidate honestly impressed with his qualifications for the office he is seeking? Or has he just told himself: "Somebody's going to get this job — why not me?"

We could mention half a dozen other interesting questions about candidates' motives. But the machine hasn't yet been invented which would disclose the answers. So the voter just has to use his old-fashioned judgment as to what's caused this candidate or that to run for office and whether the reason is good enough.

Buck-passing Seen in Row Over Budget

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

In Washington today we are witnessing a monumental, buck-passing hassle over the size of the Eisenhower budget — $71.8 billion for the coming year — which must seem frustratingly confusing.

Mr. Drummond

Right now it is a kind of political merry - go-round which the politicians understand and which can only fool the voters — if anybody.

President Eisenhower has painted himself into a box of his own making. In permitting, even encouraging, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey to urge Congress to make a substantial cut in a budget which the administration described as the "best" it could devise, Mr. Eisenhower should have known that Congress would leap to trim an item the White House considers vital to national defense — the economic aid program. Thus the President has given momentum to a budget cut he will greatly deplore or have to fight to the last trench to avert.

Playing Politics

Both sides are playing politics. House Democrats, normally eager to preserve the fullest congressional authority over appropriations, are resisting the Humphrey theory that Congress ought to do what he said the administration was unable to do. They pass it to the President. Mr. Eisenhower holds up his hand and says, "Who, me?" and gingerly tosses the ball back to the Democratically-controlled Congress.

The President himself has never bid Congress to cut his budget — and for a very good reason. He screened it and approved it; he will have to expound it and defend it. Should he fail to do so, he will be abdicating executive responsibility in the most serious manner.

Mr. Eisenhower's position is by no means free of politics. He takes the popular public stance in favor of less federal spending in principle and then blandly tells the country through his press conference that if there is to be any solid reduction of spending Congress will have to abandon some of its programs — veterans' benefits, farm relief, school construction, etc.

Eisenhower's Duty

Whose programs are these? They are Mr. Eisenhower's programs. If he believes that it is more desirable for the country to reduce federal spending substantially than it is to carry out these programs, then it is his duty as President and as leader of his party, to ask Congress to cut back these programs.

My judgment is that Mr. Eisenhower does not hold any such view, that he does not see his budget as over-taxing the economy and that he believes it more desirable to continue what he considers needed civilian programs than to cut the budget significantly. He is certainly not taking any step to develop a public opinion to the contrary.

But it is obvious that the President wants it to appear that it is Congress, not he, who is standing in the way of doing what would have to be done if there were to be a real slash in spending.

The objective fact, as pointed out by the McGraw-Hill economists, is that the proposed $71.8 billion budget places no greater burden on the economy than any budget in the last six years, because the economy has been growing. Per capita federal spending under this budget would be about $416, or $10 more than last year. But per capita income rose nearly $80 last year. On top of this is our increasing population in light of which next year's federal expenditures will be less per capita than in 1954, when federal spending was $4 billion lower.

Cutbacks Unlikely

This is why the McGraw-Hill statement warns not against the size of this Eisenhower budget but against the prospect of "steadily increasing budgets" which take 20 per cent or more of our national income and, in its judgment, deprive "private industry of the savings and resources needed to expand and modernize producing facilities."

Federal saving that will permit tax reduction will be hard to come by. It will require either (1) A great easing of the cold war, or (2) Ingenious and still undiscovered economies in defense or (3) A radical cutback in civilian programs. None of these is in sight.

Merry-Go-Round—

Hoffa's Jam May Please Beck

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The ramifications of Teamster Union politics is almost as complicated as the rivalries and jealousies of Washington society.

For instance, there is probably no one secretly happier over the hot water in which dapper, dashing Jimmy Hoffa now finds himself than the head of the teamsters, Dave Beck.

Mr. Pearson

Beck would never admit this. In fact, he stated just the opposite. Nevertheless, Beck has been sore as a boil over the manner in which Hoffa has been nudging him for the No. 1 spot in the gigantic Teamsters Union.

Some Teamsters are even so unkind as to say that the story of Dave Beck's house and its sale for $163,000 to the Teamsters, was suggested to Beck by the Hoffa faction, then deliberately leaked to the press.

The member of the Teamsters' Executive Council who proposed in secret session that the teamsters buy Beck's house was Sidney Brennan of Minneapolis, convicted under the Taft-Hartley Act for taking money from an employer to cross a picket line against a strike called by John L. Lewis's District 50.

Story Leaked

The Teamster official credited with leaking the story of the house purchase was Tom Hickey of New York, later engaged in a knock-down battle with Teamster John O'Rourke, Governor Dewey's former labor campaign manager. Both Beck and Hoffa hate Hickey, have now shunted him to the sidelines. Whether he or someone else leaked the story about the bizarre purchase of Beck's swank home with heated swimming pool, will never be known; the Teamster high command plays its cards too close to its chest.

Not so close to their chests has been the rivalry between Beck and Hoffa. When John Herlong, labor News, published a story two years ago which began: "Dave Beck has been dethroned as undisputed head of America's largest union," Beck hit the ceiling. He called a special press conference, told newsmen in no uncertain terms that he was boss of the Teamsters and would continue to be boss.

Actually there was a great deal of truth in Herlong's story. It marked the beginning of the ascendency of the tough little Teamster from Detroit who began as a grocery clerk and who has taken over more and more power in the far-flung Teamsters Union.

It also marked one of the more intense chapters of the silent but very bitter Hoffa-Beck feud — all of it watched with a mixture of amusement and alarm by other labor leaders who have tried to keep their unions clean.

Washington Pipeline

Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis is in for a congressional probe. Onassis plans to build four new tankers with a loan from the Maritime Admisistration, promising to place the new tankers under the trusteeship of his American-citizen children to guarantee that they will be available to this country in case of war. However, Congressman Herbert Zelenko of New York claims the trust is riddled with loopholes, and Congressman Bonner of North Carolina plans to investigate. . . . Ex-Chairman Len Hall is really burnt up because Ike hasn't yet offered him a top job. He wants a top-level position to keep himself in the limelight before running for Governor of New York. . The FBI is quietly investigating the office of Pennsylvania's Congressman Dan Flood for allegedly passing out classified information. The charge was brought to the FBI by a disgruntled former secretary of the Congressman who claims Flood's office told unauthorized people facts from secret hearings. . . . The Earl of Home, British delegate to the SEATO conference, bluntly warned Secretary of State Dulles that the British will be forced to reduce their military forces in Southeast Asia and may even close down their air bases on the strategic Malay Peninsula. This would mean the USA would send more ships and planes to the Far East.

Roadblocks to Pipeline

Here's another illustration of how it pays to have friends in high places — especially when it comes to oil.

Two independent oil men, Lowell Glasgow and Bert Hull of Texas, proposed running a pipeline from West Texas and New Mexico to California. There is about a million barrels of oil daily bottled up around the El Paso area which could relieve the oil deficit in California if piped there. That state imports about 270,000 barrels daily. In time of war this oil deficit would be serious, might paralyze California industry.

Glasgow and Hull found great interest for their project, plus financial backing — provided they could get a certificate of essentiality from the government. This certificate from the Treasury Department, permitting fast write-offs, is given after the Defense Department certifies to the Treasury that the project is essential to national defense.

At this point the two independent oil men ran into opposition. The independent oil companies around Texas and New Mexcio were strong for the pipeline, but the major oil companies which supply oil to California were opposed. They have wells in Saudi Arabia, Java, Sumatra and various parts of Asia, plus tanker fleets. So the oil they import into California means as much profit for them as the oil they pump in California.

When Glasgow and Hull went to the Defense Department to get an OK for their certificate of necessity, they got nowhere.

The officials who helped pass on it included W. W. White, former vice-president of Esso Standard Oil, who now has gone back to Esso, and Hugh Stewart, formerly of the Texas Company. Both Texas and Standard of New Jersey are part owners of the Arabian-American Oil Co.

Behind The News—

New Arms Proposals By Soviet Expected

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Soviet Russia is likely to provide big headlines during the disarmament talks which opened in London yesterday.

There are strong indications that the Soviet government will come up with some sensational new proposals.

Mr. McCann

It is quite possible that Andrei A. Gromyko, Russia's new foreign minister, will go to London in person to present them.

The question is whether Russia will continue its practice of making its disarmament proposals a scounding board for propaganda and will reject any agreement which would provide a air-tight inspection system.

There seems to be a feeling that this time, a way may be found to get the big powers started toward an agreement which would lead to a reduction in armed strength and control of nuclear weapons.

The London talks are being held by representatives of the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France and Russia.

Make Up Subcommittee

These five countries make up a subcommittee of the United Nations disarmament commission.

Negotiations of various kinds on disarmament had been going on ever since the end of World War II inside the U.N. and between interested powers.

No progress had been made. In hope that private talks might succeed, the five-nation subcommittee was set up on April 19, 1954.

There was a big meeting of the five countries in London in 1956. It ended in failure, as had other meetings, because Russia would not agree to an air-tight inspection agreement to prevent cheating.

The U.N. General Assembly ordered last February 14 that the five-nation meetings be resumed.

Russia had asked one week previously that the foreign ministers of the sub-committee countries attend the next disarmament talks.

This proposal was rejected. The Western Allies said they saw no reason for the foreign ministers to attend unless there was some sound basis for hope that Russia would negotiate on a realistic basis.

Foreign Ministers Available

But the foreign ministers could be summoned to London, at any time, of course, if developments warranted.

The sub-committee in its new talks will have before it all the disarmament proposals that have been made in recent years.

These include the proposal which the United States presented to the U.N. last January 14.

This provided: Fissionable materials should be used or stockpiled for peaceful purposes only.

—Pending agreement on that, advance notice should be given of tests of nuclear weapons.

—The big powers should start reducing their armed forces, aiming at a limit of 2.5 million men for the United States and Russia and 750,000 each for Britain and France.

—Guided missile and similar experiments should be put under control.

—An inspection system should be established to prevent surprise attack with either conventional or nuclear weapons.

If Russia were acting in good faith, there is no reason why it should not accept this proposal. It is likely to offer new proposals of its own. The question is whether they will provide for real inspection.

Ladies, Like 'Teenagers, Should Watch Garb

By MARGARET LATROBE

The Army made no secret of the kind of haircut Elvis Presley would have on induction to armed service — nary a winsome sideburn nor recalcitrant forelock.

Five thousand school principals, meeting recently in Washington, heard a Buffalo, New York, administrator outline the approaching end of ducktail shoulder bobs for boys, fewer T-shirts and black boots. Buffalo high school students obey a voluntary code of "appropriate" dress for school attendance. Extremist party clothes are discouraged, as well as the too informal.

Mrs. Latrobe

While applauding this new code for school youngsters, might we pause for a gander at Mamma's garb when she dashes downtown for a bit of butter? "Looking the part," we know, contributes to any role — but what is Mom going as?

I don't know about your town, but in mine we have strange and wonderful apparitions abroad in the marketplaces. Dressed like toreadors after a bad season, or charwomen homeward bound from a night's scrubbing, some of us are enough to frighten butcher, baker and sundry. Makes you wonder whatever happened to the word "appropriate."

Trousers for women are comfortable and suitable costume for assisting the man of the house as he straightens up the basement. Certain very young matrons manage to look like English schoolboys in neat Bermuda shorts — if that's the idea. If you've the house and the time and the figure for it, black velvet britches can double for something to wear by the fireside.

But on Main Street — No! Particularly if age and waistline exceed 25. It matters not how many tots must be chased and chastised in cannery row at the grocer's, any gal old enough to have and hold onto a cluster of kiddies is too old to wear pants so doing.

As for overweight ladies in unpressed plaid pleats, worn moccasins, hair pinned up under Susy's cowboy scarf — oh me! Some of us excuse general unkemptness in the name of informality. Better we take a leaf from that Buffalo schoolbook and upgrade our own voluntary code.

Myrtle, hand me the white gloves. I'm off to buy a new mop.

The Lighter Side—

Dear Philomena:

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Advice to one and all by Philomena Phew:

Dear Philomena:

I'm 43 and madly in love with a girl of 12, which sometimes happens down here in the hills. I don't rightly know whether I should marry up with this morsel on account of she cain't make shoes. I cain't go barefoot over these rocks because it gives me bunions, and I cain't afford bunions because my job is tester in a feather-duster factory that advertises its product is tootsie-tickle soft.

Ah'm tard a-makin' my own shoes, but I know I'd have to keep on a-doin' it if I married Elvisy Jayne. But I loves and likes her, and besides, I've grown accustomed to her face and breathing out and breathing in. I don't rightly know what to do. Do you?

Long Drink O'Water

Dear Long Drink:

Always glad to hear from an Irishman around this season. Or are you part Indian? Anyway, forget Elvisy Jayne, unless she can knit. If she can, my advice is go ahead and marry her. Then learn to walk on your knees and let her knit you some kneecaps. Yours, Philomena.

Dear Philomena:

I love my wife but she can't stand my gray flannel suit. In my business, what can I do?

Advertising Sam

Dear Sam:

Try getting a tailor to cut the suit down into a gray flannel shirt and expand your pink shirt into a pink suit—this might satisfy your wife and still fill the demands of your profession. And keep in touch with me. If your wife is still unhappy, we might wor something out. I'm crazy about advertising men. Love, Phil.

Dear Philomena:

I came home after a hard day at the turkey-pie machine of the frozen food factory where I work, and my wife demanded I take her out to an expensive roast turkey dinner and a rock 'n' roll dance, and before I knew it I hit her across the puss with a half-thawed piece of frozen broccoli.

Drumstick Charley

Dear Drumstick:

Cheers. Sincerely, Philomena. (P.S. Next time use unopened canned broccoli.)

(Aside to "Worried": I'd suggest that if he asks you whether you like Kipling you just tell him that you don't know how to kipple).

Yours, Philomena.

Annual Exhibit Set By Valley Art Club

Plans for the annual Art Exhibit and the election of officers for the coming year were the highlights of last night's meeting of the Monongahela Valley Art Club. The session was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Mosebaugh in Donora.

The exhibit was set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 25th, 26th and 27th, and it will be held in the Methodist Church of Donora.

The list of exhibitors has been prepared and their paintings will be received on Tuesday evening, April 23, at the church from 7 to 9 p. m.

Invited to serve as the principal judge is Walter Read Hovey, head of the fine arts department of the University of Pittsburgh.

The jury dinner will be held on Thursday evening, April 25 and then for the next two days, Friday and Saturday the exhibit will be open to the general public and there will be no charge.

New Officers

Mrs. B. R. Strausser, of Charleroi, was elected to head the group as president for the next year and the other officers selected were Mrs. Melvin Mountain, of Monongahela, vice president; Mrs. Charles E. Harvey, of Monessen, treasurer and Mrs. Albert Diaz, of Charleroi, secretary.

Announcement was made that all members are invited to paint for the inter-club sale of unframed paintings to be held in Monongahela in May.

A social hour followed and luncheon was served by Mrs. Mosebaugh assisted by two other Donora hostesses, Mrs. H. D. Weiss and Miss Mary Tomer.

The exhibit will replace the regular club meeting in April.

Ruth Ziessler, District Man Are Engaged

Announcement is being made of the engagement of Ruth Ziessler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ziessler, of McComb, O., to Ronald Phillipp. He is the son of Mr and Mrs. George Philipp, of North Third street, West Newton.

The bride-elect is employed as a dental technician in Findlay, O. and her fiance is a sophomore at Findlay College.

A summer wedding is being planned.

Children of Mary Sodality Holds Meeting

The Children of Mary Sodality of St. Cajetan Church met on Friday at the church hall. The recitation of the rosary opened the session and then reports were given by the president, Victoria Trilli; secretary; Carol Amendola and treasurer, Betty Rozyski.

The children attended mass yesterday at 9:30 in a body and received Holy Communion.

Plans were made to go to St. Michael's auditorium in Pittsburgh April 6 to see the afternoon performance of "Veronica's Veil". Reservations are limited and must be made in the next few days with Mrs. G. L. Trilli.

A fund raising project was planned to earn funds for providing flowers for the church for Holy Week and Easter Sunday.

A drive for new members was planned and initiation was set for the first anniversary to be held in May.

John Zbyl Is Honored at Birthday Fete

Mrs. William Yagodich, of State road, and Mrs. Eugene Lidgate, entertained for their father, John Zbyl, on the occasion of his 70th birthday anniversary on Sunday. It was a surprise affair and dinner was served at one o'clock.

The afternoon was spent informally and pictures were shown.

Luncheon was served in the evening and the table was centered with a large birthday cake.

Attending the party were Mr. Zbyl, his three daughters and families and friends. Guests were from Monessen, Ambridge, Sharpsburg, Butler and Gillette, N. J.

Mr. Zbyl was presented with many gifts.

First Methodist Fellowship Class Holds Reunion

A Fellowship reunion dinner was held by the members of the Fellowship Class of the First Methodist Church at Johnson's Cape Cod room and covers were laid for 74 members and guests.

Invitations were extended to former members, former teachers and pastor's wives. Several were in attendance and greetings were read from about 20 women who could not be present.

Mrs. Robert Swaney, who serves as the present class teacher, was the toastmaster and invocation was given by Leah Sneed.

Arrangements of dafodils were used as centers for the tables and the guest table was centered with a bouquet of yellow daffodils and gladiolus.

Extend Greetings

After dinner Mrs. Swaney extended her greetings as did the assistant teacher, Mrs. Miriam Scales and Mrs. Charles Throop, president of the class.

There was a brief talk given by Mrs. Allan Howes, who was teacher of the class when her husband, who is now pastor of the Asbury Methodist Church of Uniontown, served the local pastorate.

A number of the guests were introduced and spoke briefly.

After the "reunion program", there was entertainment presented by Mrs. Nan Neugabauer, a Pittsburgh organist. In a humorous manner she presented her "Satire at the Piano" in which she drew a parallel between many of the old masters and present day composers.

Send Flowers

After the meeting the guest table centerpiece was sent to Mrs. William Gray, of Monessen, a former teacher, who was unable to be present due to illness.

Guests attended from Gibsonton, Belle Vernon, Charleroi, Clairton, Monongahtla and Ohio.

LOCALS

A bowling party has been planned by members of the S.O.S. Class of the First Methodist Church this evening and they are to meet at 8:45 at the New Moon bowling alleys in Charleroi. Anyone needing transportation is asked to call Mrs. Paul Shives at MU 4-7651 or Mrs. Denver Rhome at MU 4-0461.

The members of the Isabelle Thoburn Class of the First Methodist Church will meet tomorrow evening in the church social rooms. They will attend the covered dish supper and Lenten service held by the congregation of the church at 6 o'clock and then have the class meeting later.

The series of revival services being conducted at the Triumph the Church and Kingdom of God Church will end on Friday evening. The Rev. V. Dupree, of Arnold City, is the preacher and a special prayer service is planned tomorrow evening.

There will be a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of St. Leonard R. C. School on Thursday evening at 7:30 in the school hall. Matters of importance concerning the parent and the child will be discussed.

The Esther Group of the Christian Women's Feollowship of the First Christian Church will be entertained this evening at the home of Mrs. Clara Harter, of Donner avenue, at 8 o'clock. A late supper will be served after the session.

Romeo Crisi, of Meadow avenue, who was a patient in the Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, suffering an arm injury, has returned to his home and is getting along nicely.

The people instrumental in trying to form the Sacred Heart Society at St. Leonard R. C. Church will meet on Friday evening following Stations of the Cross devotions.

Mrs. Walfred Saxberg, of 973 Alexander avenue, is a patient in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, where she is undergoing observation. Her room number is 269.

St. Leonard Church Ladies Guild will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the Parish Hall in regular business session.

Mrs. Rudolph Reday, of Monessen, has returned to her home after being a patient in the Monongahela Memorial Hospital.

George Gilman, of 1036 Graham avenue, who has been a patient in the Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, is now recuperating at his home.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Thomas McKee 28 American Legion Post will meet this evening in the Post Home for the regular session.

Mrs. Donald C. Duvall, of Division street, underwent an operation in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital this morning.

Mrs. Harold B. Cramer, of Graham avenue, has been a patient for several days in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Prather Shuster, former Monessen resident whose home is now in Glassport, was a visitor in the city on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam D. Stern left today for a vacation of several weeks at Miami Beach, Fla.

Mrs. F. R. Hicks, of 517 Donner avenue, has been admitted as a patient to Mercy Hospital.

Baptist Young People Hold Church Social

The Conservative Baptist Youth Training union of the First Baptist Church entertained about 50 members of the congregation at an "all-church" social.

Walter Mood, Jr, assistant treasurer of the Young People's group, acted as master of ceremonies and Charles Greenwood gave the opening prayer. Bill Wilson, president of the youth group, led in the song fest and conducted a Bible Quiz.

Mrs. Mabel Owens gave a humorous reading and a playlet entitled, "Mind Over Matter" was presented. In the cast were Bill Wilson, Jackie Wilson, Walt Mood and Judy Smith.

The program highlight was the showing of a film, "The Land Time Forgot", a story of foreign missionary needs.

Several musical groups were featured in selections. Pansy Harvey sang a solo and a quartet comprised of Jackie Wilson, JoAnn Smith, Carol Wilson and Judy Smith sang "A Merry Life". A trio composed of Carol, Jackie and Bill Wilson sang, "Wonderful Grace of Jesus".

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Virginia Mood.

BIRTHS

Catholic Young People Plan Two Activities

The newly organized Catholic Youth Council formed at St Leonard R. C. Church has planned for two special activities during the Lenten season.

A Communion breakfast is being set for Sunday, March 31 and reservations are asked for as soon as possible. They should be made with Eileen Mullen by calling MU 4-3142.

The Council has also announced plans to sponsor a lecture on the Holy Week services, which will be held in the school hall on Friday evening after devotions. This will be open to all members of the Parish.

Senior Girl Scout Troop Presents Variety Program And Holds Business Meet

A program of entertainment and a business session featured last night's meeting of Senior Girl Scout Troop 19 in the Civic Center. Mrs. Jane King is the troop leader.

Routine reports were given concerning last meeting and following roll call the girls received their cookies since the Girl Scout cookie sale is currently underway.

Patrol 2 arranged a program of entertainment following the business discussion and Marie Olko-A dialogue was presented by Carnouncer.

Lydia Santori and Patty Foster pantomimed to "Two Lost Souls". A dialogue was presented by Carol Karlosky, Evelyn Huscroft and Marybell Miseall. Darla Mucci presented a vocal selection and piano numbers were played by Phyllis Hyrchak, Peggy Riva and Patty Slattery.

A commercial and ballet were presented by Ellen Barton and Marcia Cenkner and then Marcia Cenkner presented a "French Chef" commercial.

After the program there were refreshments served. It was announced that there will be no meeting next Monday night, but regular sessions will be resumed on April 1.

A report was also given on the recent Scout Dance held by the troop very successfully at the Civic Center. The dance attracted a large number of couples and acting as chaperones were Mrs. Alvin Roberts, Mrs. Everett Vernaccini and Mrs. Jane King, troop leader. Scoutmaster Ray Purks was also present, along with members of his Boy Scout Troop.

Pictures were taken and then the girls and boys presented selected a King and Queen, Billy Hurrianko and Janet Raczkowski.

The evening concluded with the serving of buffet refreshments.

Card Club Is Entertained

Mrs. Jean Lazzari, of Hill street, Belle Vernon, was hostess to members of the BON card club at her home recently.

Cards were the diversion and winning the high score awards were Mrs. Lazzari, Ann Kuzemka and Millie Krupa.

Others attending were Dolores Vescio, Helen Pakish, Verdean Ostapowicz and Helen Sellaro.

Luncheon was served and Mrs. Vescio was named next hostess.

Miriam Johnson Is Bride of R. Homer Weaver

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Johnson, of 482 Reed avenue, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miriam Ruth, to Richard Homer Weaver. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Weaver, of Upper Darby.

Their wedding was an event of Saturday, March 9, in the First Presbyterian Church of Morgantown, W. Va.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doran, of Beaver Falls.

Mrs. Weaver, a graduate of Monessen High School and Geneva College, is at present a teacher in the Monessen schools. Mr. Weaver will be graduated in June of this year from Geneva College.

Pick Pomco

The right choice of a vegetable can do so much to make a meal more interesting. Take Pomco Green Beans, for example, they have that prized garden freshness, flavor and color, and they're delicious in many, many ways.

Cut 2 strips bacon into ½ inch pieces. Fry until crisp. Drain off all but 1 tablespoon bacon drippings. Add 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar, dash of salt and few grains of pepper. Pour over heated, drained Pomco cut green beans.

To go along with Lenten meals, combine Pomco whole green beans with small can sauteed button mushrooms. Toss lightly together, heat thoroughly and garnish with "curls" of butter. The butter curls are made by scraping the length of a ¼ pound print of butter with the edge of a well-chilled teaspoon.

House Puts Checks on Civil Rights Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's civil rights program ran into a new check today in the House.

The House Judiciary Committee approved a modified version of the program Monday and sent it to the Rules Committee. The Rules Committee must clear it before it can reach the House floor.

But Rules Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va) made clear that his committee will hear any opponent of the bill who wants to be heard.

"I would think that would take a little time," he said.

In the Senate, the civil rights program remained before the Constitutional Rights subcommittee.

The subcommittee tried to meet last week to draft a civil rights bill, but not enough members were able to attend the meeting. It planned to try again this afternoon.

Other congressional news:

Budget: Informed sources said the Pentagon may be able to make a budget cut of several hundred million dollars—but not several billion dollars. Economy-minded congressmen have tentatively raised the possibility of a $3.5 billion cut from the $38 billion defense budget for fiscal 1958.

Postal: Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield prepared to go before the House Post Office Committee to defend the administration's new bid for postal rate boosts. The postal rate bill includes a one-cent an ounce increase for first class mail.

Banks: Senate leaders hoped to get final passage of an omnibus banking bill. The bill would overhaul banking and credit laws, removing many dead letters from the nation's financial law books.

Revolt: House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack demanded the administration develop a policy to deal with any future revolts in Iron Curtain nations. He said the administration seemed "paralyzed" by the Hungarian revolt last year.

Man Moving Closer to Turning Salt Water into Usuable Item

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP)—Man is moving closer to his ancient dream of de-salting the sea to provide an unlimited supply of fresh water for farms and cities, government scientists said today.

Research on cheap methods of purifying ocean water will take a significant step forward this summer with the construction of three pilot plants on the East and West coasts.

If these plants work as well as designers expect, said David S. Jenkins, head of the Interior Department's Office of Saline Water, "it appears reasonably certain" that the cost of large-scale conversion of ocean water will be brought down to about 50 cents per 1,000 gallons.

That would be a major breakthrough in research. The most efficient salt water conversion apparatus now in use—aboard Navy ships and at isolated industrial sites— operates at a cost of about $2.00 per 1,000 gallons.

A Temporary Target

But Jenkins and his colleagues, who have tested scores of different conversion processes since the government research program was launched in 1952, regard the 50 cents figure as only a temporary target.

"We expect to keep on bringing the cost down," he said.

A good many more years of research and experimentation will be necessary, he indicated, to reduce conversion costs to the point where major cities would consider it economically feasible to run a pipeline to the nearest seacoast rather than fill their reservoirs from wells, rivers and lakes.

Present costs of fresh water for municipal and industrial use range from only a few cents per 1,000 gallons, in areas situated near an adequate supply, to a high of about 38 cents per 1,000 gallons in a few places where supplies are scarce.

Interior Department officials are convinced that de-salted sea water is the "ultimate" answer to the nation's ever-expanding demand for more and more fresh water.

Finding enough water to meet demand already is a major problem in virtually all Western states and in many parts of the East. Shortages are so acute in some areas that President Eisenhower recently warned that "water is rapidly becoming our most precious natural resource."

Double Present Needs

Assistant Secretary Fred G. Aandahl estimates that the 1975 population will need about 453 billion gallons of water a day—about twice the present need.

"When we can economically take water from the ocean and use it for agriculture, for industry, and for human consumption," he said, "we'll have a source of water which is practically without limit."

All three of the pilot plants to be built during the next few months are adaptations of the distillation method which man has used for centuries to purify water. Pure water is extracted by applying heat to salt water to cause evaporation, and then condensing the vapor.

'Snowman' Given Recognition by Nepal Government

KATHMANDU, Nepal (UP) — The Napalese government showed its faith in the existence of the "abominable snowman" today by forbidding foreign mountaineers to kill, injure or capture one.

The new law will hamper U.S. explorer Tom Slock's expedition now on its way to the Himalayas. The expedition is carrying a trap to capture a Yeti and two shotguns to be used in case of "extreme defense."

World interest in the mysterious creature was first stirred by members of Sir Edmund Hillary's expedition which conquered Mt. Everest in 1953.

Sherpas (Nepalese hillmen) told of a large animal that walked on its hind legs like a man. Most European authorities discounted the Yeti stories and offered various explanations for the outsize footprints which were reported seen on the upper Himalaya slopes.

The Napalese government, issuing the new "be-kind-to-Yetis" law today, made one exception. Pictures may be taken.

Bill to Revive Censors Board, Broaden Duties

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly has received legislation to revive the state Board of Censors and broaden its duties.

House bills would increase the board membership from three to five and widen its censoring powers to include not only motion pictures but books, magazines and other written or printed matter.

The legislation would make it unlawful for an exhibitor to show a film disapproved by the board to a person under 18 or for the sale of disapproved literature to minors.

The board would stamp as "disapproved" any movie or literature it considered obscene or "incites to crimes of violence."

The old censor board was ruled unconstitutional last year in a state Supreme Court decision involving the showing of motion pictures.

'Used' Clothes Helped Morale

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Robert J. McIntosh (R-Mich) wore "used" clothes to the White House recently and says they helped his morale.

Describing the recent presidential reception for members of Congress, the freshman Michigan lawmaker said "just about everyone in Washington rents his clothes for such occasions."

"It gives you a little confidence to know," he wrote in a newsletter to constituents, "that even if you haven't been through the procedures, your clothes are probably old hands at visiting the White House"

Elvis' Records Cooling Off

NEW YORK (UP) — Elvis Presley, meet Sir Isaac Newton.

Newton's law about "what goes up must come down" even covers record sales of the young "rockbilly."

A United Press survey of record sales revealed Elvis, after a 12-month run on top, now is the second hottest popular record artist in the nation. Harry Belafonte has moved to the number one position, thanks to the latest calypso fad.

RCA Victor, which records both the singers, reported Belafonte now has five records in its top 10 sales list; "Day-O"; "Jamaica Farewell"; "Mama Look At Bubu" "Hold 'Em Joe," and "Matilda." Elvis has one record in the company's top 10, "Too Much."

Belafonte, since Christmas, has sold 3,500,000 singles and 800,000 albums in his surge to the top.

In Cleveland, traditionally the record industry's barometer city, Presley singles and albums were selling best just before Christmas. Then came the decline. Said one store executive: "He's cold. The only ones who mention him now are the television comedians."

In New York, Leslie's, a leading "one-stop" record wholesaler, reported Presley sales have "tapered off, although he still has plenty of steam left." Another record shop, Tri-Boro, said Elvis began his skid late in January.

It's the same story in Boston. A survey of Boston record stores revealed Presley sales are off anywhere from 50 to 75 per cent of his November - December highs.

The Chicago picture was brighter for Elvis. He's holding his own there, although Belafonte has overtaken him. Atlanta record store owners agreed that Presley sales are "falling off" from "a little" to "quite a bit."

While most record artists would give an arm to be as "cold" as today's Presley, the United Press survey showed he has hit his peak and now is levelling off at a less-rarefied altitude.

RCA Victor wasn't too unhappy. They will continue pressing one million copies every time Elvis makes a record. It may take them a little longer to sell them, but they will get sold.

Still Sticking with Sharon to Win

Sharon High's mediocre performance against Charleroi the other night encouraged most of the experts to jump to the McKeesport camp for tomorrow night's WPIAL Tournament title game at the Pitt Field House. We picked Sharon before the tourney started and we'll stick by that selection . . . Jim Bitonti, Bellmar High basketballer, was awarded an honorable mention spot on the All-Westmoreland County Tournament team. The starting five included Dick Falenski, Derry; Sam Smith, Latrobe; Ron Palcic, Greensburg; Dennis Stoner, Scottdale; and Ted Smith, Latrobe . . . According to friends, Centerville's great athlete, Robert (Red) Worrell, has narrowed his choice of colleges to three — Pitt, North Carolina and West Virginia.

* * *

Arnold Galiffa, the former All-American football player at West Point, has been scratched from the Ozarks Basketball Tournament at the MHS gym. Galiffa was scheduled to play for a Donora entry. However the AAU ruled that he must be considered a sports professional because he is under contract by a Canadian League team. Rather than jeopardize the amateur standing of other players on the Donora quint, Galiffa has been withdrawn. . . . Incidentally the sponsoring Ozarks have taken great pains to insure the amateur status of all competing players in the current floor show.

Flora's Dismissal Had Been Rumored

Jack Flora's dismissal as basketball coach at Bellmar High came as a surprise to the likeable Hurricane boss. However it had been rumored ever since Jack made some off-the-cuff comments in Charleroi which wound up in print . . . McKeesport High coach Neenie Campbell figures his boys haven't played up to their full potential in the WPIAL Tournament yet. However Neenie is quick to recall that his Tigers looked great in last year's tourney when they racked up 91 points against Tarentum. In their next game, they scored 51, losing to Monessen. At least the current Tiger crew is still winning despite lack luster performances.

* * *

If Wampum doesn't win the Class B title in the WPIAL Tournament tonight, the Monessen faction at the floor show will be surprised. Consensus of the city boys seems to be that Wampum is about as good as any team appearing in the A division, let alone the B class . . . At least one fellow isn't interested in the Greensburg High basketball vacancy. He is Ollie Molter, current assistant . . . Tut Melman and Dick Phillips, two of the district's most respected officials, took criticism from some of the reporters covering the McKeesport - Ford City tournament tussle last week.

Mon Valley League to Have New Boss

The Mon Valley Baseball League will have a new commissioner this season. George Kuvinka, who directed the MVL in fine fashion the past several years, has stuck by an earlier decision to give up his duties. League president Peter (Bud) Roman has decided to call a meeting in the next couple of days to discuss the matter . . . Speaking of baseball, Nick Kornick, organizer of the old Big Ten League, has been trying to drum up interest in a new set-up which would include players in the 16-25 age bracket. Kornick has invited all interested persons to attend a meeting Thursday at Dices in Uniontown to go over the idea.

Dodgers Zimmer Is Guttiest in Baseball

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—You can use fancier words, but from this corner the guttiest man in baseball is Don Zimmer of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Four years ago he almost lost his life when struck by a pitched ball. Last season he was threatened with blindness after being hit by a pitch. In the lafest episode, he was sent into the dirt by a knockdown pitch—and got up to hit a home run on the next delivery.

"Little zip," who hails from Cincinnati, needed six years even to get a look in the majors. Up there ahead of him was Pee Wee Reese, the ageless wonder of the Dodgers, so as a shortstop "Zip" was behind the eight ball.

Hit By Pitcher

Still, he stayed with it despite the near-fatal injury at St. Paul in 1953. On that occasion, a burly fast ball pitcher named Jim Kirk fired one high and inside and Zimmer was told later that he ducked into it.

For 13 days he was unconscious. When he awakened, after an operation, Zimmer couldn't talk. Trying a comeback at year's end, he admittedly was so weak that he "couldn't hit the ball out of the infield."

"In the spring of 1954 I was strong again but I didn't know whether I'd be plate shy," he says. "But I found out soon enough. In the first four game series, against Toledo, the pitchers knocked me down seven times. But I didn't mind. I knew after that I was going to be just like I was before."

So much so that, at the end of the season, he was up with Brooklyn and has been there ever since.

Not painlessly, however. Playing in the winter leagues in late 1955 he suffered an arm fracture and an appendicitis attack. But by spring, Zimmer was "zipping" again.

Ozarks Tourney Underway Tonight

Here's Capsule Summary of Teams in Ozark Tournament

Here's a capsule summary of teams entered in the sixth annual Ozark Basketball Tournament at the Monessen High gym.

SENIOR DIVISION

Washington Intervals: This team is headed by Pitt stars John Riser, Bob Lazor and Barry Brautigan. In addition there's the incomparable James (Beanie) Gordon as well as Wash High grads like Dick Kurtz and Gene Steratore.

Monessen Ozarks: Roger Hotz, California Teachers standout, will head a cast which also includes George and Nick Lovich, Bob Mascetta, Raymond Johnson, Ed Sanc, John Beck and Andy Lenio.

Monessen Cro-Ams: This is the City League champion: Paul Kunsa, Tony Crisi, Sam Dominico, Ernie Lattanzio, Larry Pappini, Fred Uhlman, Al Kubic and Bill Beck.

Donora Last Chance: The cast includes Carnegie Tech stars Al Frank and Charles Goetz as well as the Sharpsburg sensation Guy Pugliese. Sibby Lo Negro from California Teachers is also included along with veteran Donorans Bimbo Cecconi, John Mesher, Al Garde, Dave Wunderlich and Dave Russell.

New Brighton: This club is made up of Beaver valley stars, headed by Dave Nichols, ex of Kentucky University. The team is big and talented.

Monessen Big Five: So far the roster includes Leroy Stover, John Bronson, Willie Bronson, Felton Brown and Dale Simpson.

McKeesport: This is Bob Smith's popular team. He's entered a quint in every Ozark tournament. Smith hasn't disclosed his roster as yet.

JUNIOR DIVISION

Connellsville All-Stars: A mixture of Connellsville and Uniontown High players, including Jack Haggerty, Wilbert Scott, Ken Fairfax, Bob Baker and Bernard Jones.

Brownsville Peppers: The best from Brownsville, California and Redstone Highs. On the roster are Bob Chuey, Grover Ferguson, John Rohaley, Sam Canastra, Nate Green and Ken Kulak among others.

Monessen Greyhound Bus: This is next year's Monessen High team coached by Roy DeRocco The player list includes Dick DiBiaso. Joe Kurey, Al Thiry, Dan Barton. Joe Karbowsky, Charles Bill, Bill Mackinen, George Murin, Myron Sepitko and Carl Payne.

Greensburg Leonses: Practically the Greensburg High team. St. Vincent star Bernie Peterson will coach boys like Ron Palcic. Bob Hawk, Pete Archibald and Bob Eicher.

West Virginia Mounties: This is a high school team from Blaksville, W. Va. It is the first out-of-state team to ever enter the Ozark show.

Connellsville Boosters A and B: Henry Oppermann, noted Connellsville sportsman, has entered two teams in the tourney. The boys will be selected from the Connellsville area.

Monessen Ozark Juniors: The roster is still incomplete but now includes these boys: Robert Burns, Philip Trozzi, George Selullo, George Lovich, Ronald Cherski and Joe D'Allegoria.

Monessen Tracys: Defending champions have lined up both Monessen and Charleroi grads. The roster shows Frank Crisi, Maurice Mathieu, John Bogovich, Dan Testy, John Gray, Bob Boda, Carl Witmyer and Myron Pottios.

Ellsworth Central: This looks like a surprise team, made up off Ellsworth and Perryopolis stars. Richard Kurnik, Bill Dean, and Paul Squarcia are Ellsworth products; Jack Smaroff is from Bentleyville, while Dennis Accotto, Robert Benke, Steve Stolarik and Jerry Matty hail from Perryopolis.

Monessen Links: Coached by Monessen police lieutenant, Algie Link, this team includes a brilliant array: Jame Gordon and Charles Smith (Washington); Wilbur Stewart (Snowden), Ollie Payne (Charleroi); Reginald Haten (Rostraver) as well as old favorites Ron Minnie, Carl Crawley, Royal Mason, Joe Austin.

Belle Vernon: This is the Bellmar High team in tact, Perry Schwartz will coach John Hewitt, Bill and Ron Schmidt, Paul Hayduk, Jim Bitonti, Bill Kubin, Harry Niccoali, Tom Package, Carl Osborn and Bob Beggs.

Monessen Fuocos: So far the roster shows Joe Rullo, Vaughn Wilkins and Ed Laatu.

Elizabeth: This is a combination of Elizabeth, Duquesne and Clairton players. A tough outfit which includes George Sorick, Russ Fenton, Jim Nolder, Ken Gadson, Judge Dickson, Tony Soukovich, Orrie Rockwell, Butch Smith, Bill Soffa and Marion Moore.

Donora Lumber: Mostly Donora High players, including Bill Marran, Richard Mongulluzzo and Don Sento.

Donora Bills: This club includes both Charleroi, Donora, California and Monongahela standouts. From Charleroi are George Schoener, Joe Uhlman, Don Baker and John Lenhart; from Donora, Bill Sento and Angie Dabiero; from Monongahela, Dee Galiffa, Ed Kikla and Rich Sacane and from California, Ewing Bell.

Redlegs Have Power But Lack Pitching

By LEO H. PETERSEN

TAMPA, Fla.. (UP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs have the power to win the National League pennant. But most baseball followers don't think they have enough pitching

However, Birdie Tebbetts, in his fourth season as manager of the Redlegs, doesn't agree with them. He insists he has "the best pitching depth in the league."

"We have seven or eight pitchers who can start and relieve," Tebbetts claims. "We may not have the standout starters some other teams have, but they can't come up to us in overall depth. And there isn't a better relief pitcher in the business than (Hersh) Freeman."

Wanted: Singles, Doubles

While Tebbetts is impressed with Cincinnati's power—the club tied the all-time major league club home run record last season when it clouted 221—he said he would be "satisfied with less homers and more singles and doubles."

He conceded that perhaps Brooks Lawrence, who won 19 games in 1956, "might not win that many again," but added that Joe Nuxhall, who won only 13 last year "should do much better."

Birdie expects help from Warren Hacker and Russ Meyer, both of whom were obtained from the Cubs, and contends that holdovers Art Fowler (11-11), Johnny Klippstein (12-11), Hal Jeffcoat (8-2) and Tom Acker (4-3) should improve their last year's records.

Outfield All Set

The outfield is all set with Frank Robinson, the National League rookie of the year in 1956, in left. Gus Bell in center and Wally Post in right.

The Redlegs have the best double play combination in the league in Roy McMillan at short and Johnny Temple at second. Big Ted Kluszewski is set at first base and under present plans, Tebbetts will platoon third base among Don Hoak, Alex Grammas and Rocky Bridges.

Ed Bailey, probably the most improved player in the league last year when he batted .300 and hit 28 homers, will be the No. 1 catcher with Smoky Burgess, also a long ball hitter, behind him.

Tebbetts calls it the best catching staff in the league.

Two Sophs on 'Look' Quint

NEW YORK (UP)—Two sophomores—Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas and Elgin Baylor of Seattle—today were named to Look Magazine's 10-man All-America basketball team.

Others selected were Chet Forte of Columbia, Lennie Rosenbluth of North Carolina, Guy Rodgers of Temple, Gary Thompson of Iowa State, Charlie Tyra of Louisville, Jim Krebs of Southern Methodist, Rod Hundley of West Virginia and Frank Howard of Ohio State.

The team was selected for the magazine by the 400 members of the newly-formed United States Basketball Writers Assn.

Glover Leads In Ice Scoring

NEW YORK (UP)—Fred Glover of the Cleveland Barons today held a five-point lead in the race for the American Hockey League scoring title.

Glover, held to a single point for the second straight week, had a total of 93 points and, with only three games remaining, seems a safe bet to win his first AHL scoring title. Willie Marshall of Hershey remained the only serious threat to Glover with 88 points

Paul Larivee of Providence was in third place with 85 points. He was followed by Cleveland's Jimmy Moore (84), Rochester's Bronco Horvath (80) and Bo Elik of Cleveland (77).

Larivee le the league in goals scored with 44 and Moore was the leading playmaker with 63 assists.

Johnny Bower of Providence had the circuit's best goaltending average of 2.39, having allowed 134 goals in 56 games.

Hogan, Snead Favored Again

PALM BEACH, Fla (UP) —Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, two of the professional circuits top golfers who have been relaxing all winter, were the co-favorites for the $10,000 two-day Seminole pro - amateur golf tournament which got underway today.

Hogan and Snead, who passed up all other PGA tourneys this winter, warmed up with sub - par rounds over the local course the past two days. Hogan fired a six-under-par 66 over the 6,901 -yard course, while Snead put together rounds of 62 and 63 on successive days last week.

Notre Dame to Expand Aid to Its Footballers

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP) — Notre Dame is expanding its aid program to athletes in order "to compete" in football, Coach Terry Brennan said today.

"We're going to have to have more boys on deals," he said, "with about the same number every year. We can't go on the way we have been."

Brennan opened spring practice Monday with about 65 players reporting. But it was the first year in history that Notre Dame was without a "name" player at some position and also the first year that spring practice began without a quarterback of some reputation.

Athletic Director Moose Kraus confirmed that Brennan would be granted additional "deals" which at Notre Dame consist of room, board, tuition, books and laundry and no cash.

Up to Coach

"We've always left it up to our coach to say how many they want," Kraus said. "If Terry wants 35 or 40 a year, he can have them. I'd say that's what he'd get each year now, somewhere between 35 and 40."

Noure Dame last year had only one standout player, All-America quarterback Paul Hornung, and few seniors.

Brennan listed only five players on the spring roster who were juniors last fall and whom he expected to be of some help this year.

Worst Season

Last season was the worst in Irish gridiron history with only two victories in 10 games.

Brennan hoped that Bob Williams, who started two games at quarterback last fall against Pittsburgh and Southern California, could take the job this year, and he anticipated that sophomore George Izo, Barbertown, Ohio, might help.

Mayor Opposes Closing of Pimlico

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro has called for legislation to defeat a bill before the state legislature calling for the abandonment of Pimlico race track and transfer of its dates to Laurel. In a letter written to state Senator Anthony Dimonenico, D'Alessandro said "Baltimore is the home of the Preakness...and therefore I am opposed to any plan that would mean the end of Pimlico."

Panthers Name Grid Co-Captains

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Center Charles Brueckman, a senior from Stowe Twp., and tackle Jim McCusker, a junior from Jamestown, N.Y., have been named co-captains of the University of Pittsburgh's 1957 football team.

Six Games Will Open Floor Show At Monessen Gym

The sixth annual Monessen Ozarks Basketball Tournament will open tonight at the MHS gym.

Six junior division games will tip off the floor show, which this year will include a beauty contest as well.

No less than 16 teams have entered the junior division. Seven quints will compete for senior honors.

6:30 — Monessen Ozarks vs. Donora Lumber.

7:20 — Monessen Greyhound Bus vs. Connellsville Boosters.

8:10 — Monessen Links vs. Greensburg Leonses.

9:00 — West Virginia Mounties vs. Connellsville All-Stars.

9:50 — Brownsville Peppers vs. Belle Vernon.

10:40 — Monessen Fuocos vs. Elizabeth.

Division Loaded

Both divisions are loaded with solid clubs.

"This looks like our finest tourney," enthused director Tony Mascetta. "Most teams appear to be exceptionally strong."

The senior division will be conducted on a double-elimination basis this year. That means it will take two losses to knock a club from the show.

"We're going to experiment with the double-elimination idea," said Mascetta. "Since our senior field is relatively small, we are able to try the scheme, which should make for a more interesting tourney."

Complete Schedule

Mascetta said that complete tournament schedules were drawn yesterday and will be released tonight.

The current show will play every other night through March 29th.

A new wrinkle has been added to the 1957 tourney — a beauty contest.

Seven lovely ladies from valley communities will compete during the final three nights of the floor show for the title of tournament queen. All will receive prizes.

Here are the officials for tonight's opening games:

6:30 — Walter Malinchak and John Lipnicky; 7:20 — Joseph Leone and Walter Malinchak; 8:10 — James Dodaro, and John DiBiaso; 9 — John DiBiaso and John Lipnicky; 9:50 — James Dodaro and Joe Leone; 10:40 — Buzzy Stevenson and Walter Malinchak.

Offer Million For Herb Score

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP) — Cleveland Indian fireballer Herb Score today found the $1-million offer made for him by the Boston Red Sox as difficult to believe as anybody else.

"I guess Im no judge' of values," he said when he learned of the offer. "But I'd say no ball player is worth a million dollars.'

Score also was asked if he now thought he made a "bad deal" in signing for $60,000 in view of the enormous price tag on him.

"No," he replied, "I think the Indians were very fair to me."

Plan Hearings On Legislation On Baseball

WASHINGTON (UP)—The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee said today he is now inclined to hold public hearings on pending baseball bills and summon Commissioner Ford Frick, club owners and players to testify.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D - NY), author of a bill to bring baseball under the anti-trust laws, hitherto had indicated hearings would not be necessary because his committee previously has gone into the matter extensively.

Celler disclosed his change of heart after learing from the United Press that Frick has invited the 16 big league club owners and the presidents of the American, National and minor leagues to meet at Bellair, Fla., Friday to determine baseball policy on pending baseball legislation.

Two top-ranking Republicans on Celler's committee — Reps. Kenneth B. Keating of New York and Patrick J. Hillings of California—promptly endorsed the idea of hearings. In fact they urged extensive hearings.

Keating is drafting a "bill of rights" that would exempt all sports from the anti-trust laws but establish a code of fair procedures—with the force of law — for dealings between management and players.

Hillings, leader in Congress of a move to bring big league baseball to the West Coast, is author of a bill similar to Celler's.

Also pending in the House is a bill by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark) to give football, basketball and hockey the same exemption from anti-trust laws not enjoyed by baseball.

Their bills were introduced after the Supreme Court ruled last month that football is subject to anti-trust laws.

Celler said he has not decided yet when hearings will be held. But next month appeared a likely possibility.

Bosox Bid One Million Dollars

Make Fabulous Offer for Cleveland Pitcher Herb Score

By MILTON RICHMAN

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP) — General Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox confirmed today that he made a "serious cash offer" of $1-million for Cleveland strikeout king Herb Score and bristled at a suggestion that the fabulous offer was a publicity stunt.

"I was and am definitely serious—certainly the offer was made in good faith," Cronin told skeptical reporters after General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians revealed he had rejected the deal. "I offered him $1-million for Score and told him to take the offer to the Indians' board of directors.

"Greenberg said he'd give me a ring," Cronin went on. "I didn't expect him to say anything about the offer. But, now that he has, it's true."

Hit Like Bomb-shell

Greenberg's statement hit the major league training sites like a bomb-shell and produced reaction ranging from stunning disbelief to statements like "Bill Veeck is running the show" and "Cronin and Greenberg just dreamed that up to produce a headline." Even Boston fans conceded "$1-million seems awful hard to believe."

But in Tucson, Ariz., Manager Kerby Farrell of the Indians told the United Press: "Mr. Greenberg did a very reasonable thing and I am glad he did. I would not trade Score for Mickey Mantle or Al Kaline."

Cronin and Greenberg had slightly different versions of exactly how the offer — four times the record amount ever paid for a major league player—was made.

Proposal Unfolds

"Greenberg and I sat down Monday and tried to work out every possible combination for a deal," said Cronin. "I finally said, 'I'm offering you $1-million for Score. Take that to your board of directors.' We didn't shake hands. Greenberg said he'd give me a ring."

"We were discussing another deal involving a pitcher," said Greenberg. "Finally Cronin said, 'I'd give a million dollars for a sure 20-game winner—a pitcher like Score.' I replied, 'Do you mean you would give me $1-million for Score?' and he said, 'Yes, I think I would.' I hesitated a moment and said, 'Well, I wouldn't take it.'"

Score, a 23-year old New York-born left-hander who got a $60,000 bonus to sign with Cleveland, set a record for a rookie by striking out 245 batters in 1955 and last season whiffed 263 while compiling a 20-9 record. His 1956 strikeout total was the highest in the majors since 1946 when Bob Feller fanned 348 and Hal Newhouser whiffed 275 and his two-year record of 508 strikeouts in 476 innings is unprecedented.

Dodger Pitchers Look Good in Spring Games

All this — and Johnny Podres too!

That was the reaction in the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp today after Manager Walt Alston's "big three of the mound" turned in a sparkling seven-hitter in Monday night's 8-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The game marked a successful spring debut for Don Newcombe, the big 27-game winner of last season, the finest showing yet by 40-year-old Sal Maglie and finally a splendid three - inning "cleanup" by Podres.

Get Pitching

The New York Yankees continued to get the best all - around pitching on the Grapefruit circuit when Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar limited the Philadelphia Phillies to three hits in a 5-0 triumph. Ford yielded two singles in five innings and Ditmar a lone hit in the last four as the Yankees stretched their string of consecutive scoreless innings to 24.

Andy Pafko delivered his second, key late-inning homer in a few days to spark the Milwaukee Braves to a 7-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Pafko blasted a three-run eighth-inning homer after the Braves rallied with three runs in the seventh to produce a 3-3 tie.

Lynch Triples

Jerry Lynch's triple, a walk, a single by Don Hoak and Gus Bell's infield roller produced two runs and gave the Cincinnati Redlegs a 7-6 win over the Boston Red Sox in 10 innings. The Red Sox tagged Joe Nuxhall for five runs but were stopped cold by Warren Hacker, who turned in his third straight strong job of the spring.

Mike Baxes tripled home Johnny Groth in the 10th inning as the Kansas City Athletics shaded the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, in the only other game on the citrus circuit. Ex-Yankee Tom Morgan turned in a strong five - inning mound performance for Kansas City while Dale Long and Bill Virdon hit homers for the Pirates.

German Good In TV Debut

NEW YORK (UP) —Eight offers poured in today for Stefan Redl, explosive and unbeaten young German welterweight, who stopped Rocky Milone in the eighth round of their wild TV brawl at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night for his 13th straight victory.

The stocky, brown-haired slugger, who was floored twice and decked his 23-year-old opponent from Coney Island three times, had offers for seven fights in six cities.

The transplanted 24-year - old German, who now fights out of Passaic, N. J., was favored at 4-1; but he was dropped twice in the second round for mandatory eight-counts. He never had been down before as a professional or in his 138 amateur bouts in Europe. After that he gave wild - swinging Rocky a terrific battering.

Redl gashed Milone's nose in the third, had him staggering in the fifth, floored him for "nine" with a left hook in the seventh, and dropped him with left hooks for eight and nine in the eighth. Referee Barney Felix stopped the bout at 2:04 of the eighth.

St. Casimir in Regional Game

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UP) — St. Casimir High of Pittsburgh, with 43 consecutive victories, seeks to repeat as Class B champion of the PCIAA Western Region tonight when it plays St. John's High of Uniontown for the title on the Johnstown High School court.

St. Casimir has gone undefeated two seasons. Gus Krops team won the regional title last year and then defeated Bethlehem Catholic for the state PCIAA Class B championship.

St. Johns has an 18-3 record this season.

Pirates Lose To Athletics in Tenth, 4 to 3

TAMPA, Fla. (UP) —The Pittsburgh Pirates, at the top in Grapefruit League standings, with a 7-3 record, play the Chicago White Sox here today after losing a series to the Kansas City Athletics.

The Bucs dropped their rubber game with the Athletics, 4-3, in West Palm Beach Monday. The well-played game went 10 innings, with Mike Baxes tripling off the right field wall to score Johnny Groth with the winning run.

The payoff hit came off Bob Purkey. In their half of the 10th, the Bucs had a chance to go ahead with two men on with one out. But rookie Ryne Duren fanned Bill Virdon and got Dale Long on an infield roller.

Tom Morgan hurled the first five innings for Kansas City, giving up a run in the first on a triple by Paul Smith and an infield out. Eddie Blake yielded homers to Long in the sixth and Virdon in the eighth.

The Athletics scored a run in the fourth on three singles and tied it at 3-3 in the eighth on a walk, a single and Irv Norens pinch double.

Giambra Takes On Andrews

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP) —Joey Giambra and Al Andrews, who have come to blows before when the price was right, do it again tonight when they meet in a 10-round, non-televised middleweight bout at the Oakland Auditorium.

Giambra, the handsome Buffalo, N. Y., stylist now campaigning out of San Francisco, rallied to earn a unanimous decision over Andrews in January of 1956 and is favored to repeat the triumph.

Fight Results—

NEW YORK: Stefan Redl, 144, Passaic, N.J., stopped Al (Rocky) Milone, 148½, New York (8).

HOLYOKE, Mass.: Bob Baker, 217, Pittsburgh, Pa., outpointed Jeff Dyer, 201, Springfield, Mass. (10).

BRISTOL, Conn.: Steve Ward, 139, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Gene Butler, 139, Boston (10).

Two More Upsets Feature Play In National Invitation Show

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Five upsets in six games have the National Invitation Tournament in an uproar today, and tonight it's the turn of Bradley and Temple to be "cursed" with the favorite's role in quarter-final games.

Bradley (19-7) takes on hot-shooting Xavier of Ohio (20-7) in the first game and then speedy Rodgers leads Temple (18-8) against Dayton's "bridesmaids" (19-8) in the second.

But look what happened to the favorites in Monday night's two quarter - finals—top-seeded Seattle was handed an 85-68 shellacking by small but sassy St. Bonaventure and Manhattan took an 85-73 drubbing from Memphis State.

Used Swarming Tactics

St. Bonnie, proudly calling itself the "team without a star," will meet Memphis State in one semi-final on Thursday night. Tonight's winners will meet in the other, and then the nationally-televised finals will be staged Saturday at 2 p.m. EST.

St. Bonaventure overwhelmed Seattle and its highly-touted Elgin Baylor with the same swarming, scrapping tactics that bewildered Cincinnati in the first round. Baylor emerged with 23 points and 25 rebounds, but was hardly a vital factor in the game. The six-seven soph star collected fouls fast and finally fouled out with four minutes left.

Memphis State was led to its victory by six-five Jim Hockaday, who came off the bench in the second half when regulars were loaded with fouls to can seven of nine field goal attempts. He broke Manhattan's back just when the New York Jaspers were rallying from a seven-point halftime deficit.

Six-seven Barney Cable, who had 368 points and 303 rebounds this season, leads second-seeded Bradley against Xavier tonight. The Peoria Indians will be tackling a team that sank 47 per cent of its shots in its opening game and has equal height.

Rodgers, voted the "outstanding visiting player to appear in New York City" during the regular season, will be the chief hope of Temple against Dayton. The underdog Flyers, who have finished second four times in this tourney but never have won the title, have a veteran tourney team and are hoping that six-eight Jim Palmer will suddenly become the big star he has given promise of being.

Panther Coach Heads for Philly

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Jim Tully, tennis and squash professional at the Pittsburgh Golf Club and the University of Pittsburgh, has resigned to accept a similar post at the Merion Cricket Club near Philadelphia.

Tully, 46, started his career at Merion as a locker boy and rose to the position of assistant pro to Bill White before coming to Pittsburgh. He has been pro at the Pittsburgh Golf Club since 1935 and has tutored the Pitt Panthers the past five years.

He is a two-time national pro squash racquets champion.

Pitt officials said Monday night no successor to Tully has been considered as yet.

U. S. Women Take Badminton Title

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England, (UP)—Judy Devlin of Baltimore received most of the credit today for leading the United States team to victory in the women's world badminton championship. Miss Devlin won two matches as the Yanks whipped Denmark, 5-0, Monday night in the newly-formed Uber Cup competition. She defeated Mrs. Toni Ahm, 11-2, 11-8, and then teamed with her sister, Sue, in whipping Kirsten Granlund and Anni Hansen, 15-8, 15-4.

Dyer Stopped By Bob Baker

HOLYOKE, Mass. (UP)—Young Jeff Dyer's drive for recognition in the heavyweight ring wars has been reversed for the first time at the hands of eighth-ranked Bob Baker of Pittsburgh.

The 25-year-old Dyer, who had won seven straight since receiving his Army discharge, was no match for the experienced Baker and dropped his first decision, a unanimous 10-round verdict, before a sellout crowd at the Valley Arena Monday night.

The 201-pound Dyer, of Springfield, opened up early in the bout on Baker, 217, but the know-how Baker had gained in 57 bouts began telling in the second round and he had no trouble thereafter. The Pittsburgh slugger won eight of the 10 rounds from all three ring officials.

Baker, with 53 victories in 58 tries, now meets Willie Besmanoff of Germany in an April 1 bout at the St. Nicholas Arena in New York.

Minnesota Invited To Kentucky Show

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UP) — The University of Minnesota has been named to compete in the fifth annual University of Kentucky Invitational basketball tournament here on Dec. 20-21. Minnesota joins North Carolina and host Kentucky in the field with one more team to be named.

Wampum Meets Shannock in B Title Game

By UNITED PRESS

The Wampum Indians, who went all the way in the state basketball tournaments in 1955, will try to do it again tonight when they play the Shannock Valley Spartans at the Pitt Field House for the WPIAL Class B championship.

Wampum, winners of the Section 20 title, eight times, is undefeated this season and has won 26 straight. Shannock Valley, of Section 21, has a 23-0 record.

Both teams have done some high scoring this season, each having hit the 100 point mark in league play. Wampum has averaged 86.6 points per game and Shannock Valley 87.7.

Wampum won both the WPIAL and PIAA Class B titles in 1955.

Meanwhile, the WPIAL Basketball Committee announced the Class A championship game between Sharon and McKeesport at the Field House Wednesday night is a sellout.

Kiwanis Club In Ladies Nite

Plans have been completed by the West Newton Kiwanis Club for a Ladies Nite to be held at Twin Coaches this evening at 7 p. m.

A large crowd of Kiwanians and wives are expected to attend. Entertainment will be furnished by the McGuire Sisters.

Members attending will receive credit for a regular meeting. Those who are unable to attend are asked to be present at a round table to be held at Husky's Restaurant at 6:15. Club Secretary Frank P. Anto will be in charge of this meeting.

Polio Vaccine Given To School Children

Free anti - polio inoculations were given to 455 pupils in West Newton public schools last week. Of these, 308 pupils received first shots, 18 second shots, and 129 third shots. This inoculation program covered students from kindergarten through the 12th grade.

The shots were administered by Dr. A. H. King, school doctor. He was assisted by Mrs. Ruth Conrad, state nurse, and Mrs. Julia Kamerer, school nurse.

Second inoculations will probably be given next month, with third shots scheduled in the fall.

Church School to Meet on Thursday

Bandit Is Killed by Minister

SELLERSBURG, Ind. (UP)—A Methodist pastor avenged the murder of his state trooper friend Monday afternoon by blasting a bank bandit to death in a gun duel.

The Rev. Robert W. Gingery, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in New Albany, Ind., shot and killed William Hassett, 25, Louisville, Ky., at a police blockade near here.

Hassett moments before had shot and killed state police Sgt. Marvin Walts, 47, who had stopped the bandit for questioning in the $1,655 robbery of the Sellersburg, Ind., State Bank.

Gingery, 37, whose steely calm broke down shortly after the shooting, was give sedation and placed under a doctor's care today.

Carried Two Guns

The minister said Walts, a close friend and parishioner, had stopped a car carrying a man who answered the bank bandit's description. Walts radioed headquarters with the information.

A short time later, Gingery reported over the police radio:

"Marvin has been shot and I have killed the bank robber."

Walts was killed with a bullet in the head when he approached Hassett's car to question the bandit.

Hassett jumped out, grabbed Walts' service revolver and advanced toward Gingery with guns in both hands.

Gingery picked up a sawed-off shotgun, kept loaded on the front seat of the officer's squad car, and pulled the trigger. Nothing happened. The clergyman, although unfamiliar with guns, realized the safety catch must be locked and fumbled with the gun until he found it.

Shoots Through Window

While the minister was trying to release the safety catch, the robber crept to the back of the car and fired at Gingery. The minister whirled around in the front seat and shot through the back window. Hassett fell with a blast in the chest.

Gingery said Walts, a 20-year state police veteran who was due to retire next year, had joined his congregation two years ago and was a deeply religious man.

Walts had made it a habit to invite the pastor out for lunch and a ride in his car on the anniversary of joining the church, Gingery said. Monday was the second anniversary date.

The shooting occurred only about 10 minutes after Hassett had held up five women employes in the Sellersburg bank. He scooped up about $1,655 and fled in a car. The loot was recovered.

Walts, a former school principal, was riding in his car nearby with Gingery when he heard the alarm over the police radio.

When Walts was shot, he was awaiting the arrival of another trooper who had been sent from the bank to the road blockade to help return Hassett for identification by the bank employes.

Worked In Erie

Hassett's father, Benjamin, a retired General Electric Co. worker at Erie, Pa., broke down when told of his son's death.

"Oh, the poor kid," he sobbed. "I've been worried about him for a long time. He called me six or eight weeks ago and seemed depressed.'

The elder Hassett said his son had worked at the GE plant in Erie until two years ago when he was transferred to Louisville. He said his son was married but was separated from his wife.

"I blame the whole thing on his marriage," the father said. "He married the wrong kind of girl."

Gingery is a native of Indianapolis and was ordained in 1944. He became pastor of the New Albany Church in 1952 and has been active in civic projects in the city.

Indiana state Sen. Thomas Hasbrook of Indianapolis, a boyhood friend of Gingery, called him a "very nice guy, even - tempered, very understanding."

World-Telegram And Sun Price Up to 10 Cents

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York World-Telegram and Sun announced today that beginning Tuesday its newstand price will be 10 cents per copy.

The present newsstand price of the newspaper is five cents.

In a page one announcement, the Scripps - Howard newspaper said:

"Beginning tomorrow the newstand price of the World-Telegram and Sun will be 10 cents per copy, this newspaper's first increase in the past 13 years.

"Since 1944, the overall cost of producing the World-Telegram and Sun has more than doubled.

"Major contributing factors to this great rise in operating expense have been the steady increases in labor costs and the price of newsprint. Cost for both today are more than twice what they were 13 years ago.

"These are the reasons for the increase—a step necessary to keep the World-Telegram and Sun at its best and to provide for its continued improvement in quality and service."

Clothes not as clean as you'd like? Don't blame your automatic washer—it needs hot water and plenty of it. A Family (Laundry) Rated GAS Water Heater is the only sure way to solve the problem.

Get a Family (Laundry) Rated GAS water heater and make sure!

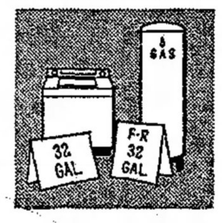
Even if you have the best automatic washer made, clothes just won't come clean if the water isn't hot enough . . . if there isn't enough 160° hot water. You need anywhere from 30 to 45 gallons per hour.

but why pay for more hot water than you need?

Why pay for a bigger storage tank? Only GAS water heaters are fast enough to keep pace with your automatic washer and supply all your other needs at the same time. And only Family (Laundry) Rating can tell you which GAS water heaters are right for your particular washer.

first, find out the family (laundry) rating of your washer

Different washers take different amounts of hot water. Your plumber or gas appliance dealer has a Family (Laundry) Rating chart which shows exactly how much 160° water your automatic washer needs per hour. And THAT is its Family (Laundry) Rating.



then, it's easy to match it with the right gas water heater

Your dealer or plumber will show you the new GAS water heaters with the same Family (Laundry) Rating as your automatic washer. It's the wisest, simplest way to buy the right water heater . . . and the most economical, too.

26 Hurt in Explosion

DETROIT (UP) —An explosion ripped through a huge paint-drying oven at the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant in suburban Dearborn late Monday night, injuring 26 workers, six critically.

Doctors said all of the injured were expected to recover.

About 2,000 employes were in the plant when the blast went off. It wrecked the paint-drying oven and part of a conveyor line and blew out a section of the building wall. The explosion was followed by a fire which was quickly put out by company firemen.

Some of the injured were working atop catwalk platforms near the oven when the blast rocked the huge plant, hurling the workers to the ground. Several were burned and one fireman was overcome by smoke.

Ambulances from surrounding communities removed the injured to Henry Ford and Wayne County hospitals. Others wefe treated at the plant hospital and released.

Hospitalized in critical condition were Basher Uddin, 22; Victor Taylor, 46; Curtis Freeman, 22; John Goodwin, 56; William R. Harper, 47, and Fred Nelson, 59, all of Detroit.

The oven in which the blast occurred is used to dry paint on auto body frames. The blast was believed to have originated in a paint drain tank running beneath the giant oven.

Ford officials said fire damage to the building was minor compared with the damage caused by the explosion. Production was not disrupted, according to a company spokesman.

Deer Sets Some Sort of Record

MARINE CITY, Mich. (UP) — Conservation officials said today they think a deer which swam across the St. Clair River four times Monday set some sort of endurance record for swimming deer. The officers said the deer swam over from the Canadian shore but was frightened away by spectators and swam back to Canada. Later the same deer swam over a second time and was frightened back again.
